Fight to Earmark Funds for PWA In Recovery Bill

Coalition Bloc Lines Up Votes to Permit Senate to Specify Where Funds Will Be Spent on PWA Work; Utilities Power Plant Amendment Hit.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Working in secret, a group of Republican and Democratic senators today was lining up votes to specify in the Public Works Administration section of the relief-recovery bill every project that shall be constructed.

The projects, hundreds of them and reaching every state, would be drawn from the present list of applications approved by PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes, but not yet started because of lack of funds.

Appropriated for PWA in the bill as reported to the senate would be $865,000,000, with authorization to establish a $400,000,000 revolving fund from securities received from local sponsors of projects. The house voted an appropriation of $965,000,000 and a $500,000,000 revolving fund.

Senators in the group working under-cover for votes were said to have received much encouragement from their home states. The universal reply to inquiries was said to have been enthusiastically in favor of congress earmarking the PWA program.

But while the battle for millions of dollars was under way the storm over an appropriations committee amendment to bar use of PWA funds for construction of power plants in competition with privately-owned companies, was splitting the senate wide open.

New Dealers Belligerent.

New Dealers, who have vigorously championed government ownership of power plants, were in a belligerent mood over the amendment. There were reports that President Roosevelt favors it with some modifications. The reports surprised the self-styled liberals. Suggestions advanced that the administration wants to make a good-will gesture to the private power companies in the hope they will employ many idle men evoked consternation of the government ownership forces.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, majority leader, hoped to have his compromise proposal in written form today. He said it will provide against PWA loans to municipalities for power plants, unless the communities have made "fair price" offers for existing privately-owned plants. Senator Norris (I-R) of Nebraska, and others intend to oppose it.

Oppose Amendment.

Opposition to the committee amendment in any form was voiced by Senators Wheeler (D) of Montana and Schwellenbach (D) of Washington, despite Barkley's expression that he thought President Roosevelt would favor his modified amendment.

Under the Barkley compromise the adminisrator of PWA funds would be the judge of whether a fair price had been offered to a private utility, though the president would be the final judge, Barkley explained.

REJECTS BILLS

House Group Turns Down Plan to Legalize Lotteries.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)— The house taxation committee today refused to recommend for passage a resolution proposing to submit to voters in November a constitutional amendment to permit operation of lotteries in Ohio to raise money for future relief needs.

The resolution was sponsored by Rep. Patrick F. Monahan, D., Cuyahoga. The motion to recommend the resolution for passage was defeated by an 11 to 5 vote.

The committee later defeated by a 6 to 9 vote the Monahan bill proposing to legalize race horse bookmaking and proposing a $5,000 fee to be paid by license bookmakers. This bill also was intended to raise relief money.

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y.—(U.P.)—A break in the mystery of the disappearance of four-year-old Betty Jane Hobbs is expected by nightfall, Chief of Police Frederick A. Hoefert announced today. Important information, he said, has been uncovered which "will set us on the right track." He refused to divulge the nature of the findings.

BUYS FOUR LOTS AS SCHOOL SITE

Board Makes Sure It Will Have Ground for New Building; Pays $3,000 for Land.

Making certain that they will have a site for a new junior high school building when they have the funds to build it, members of the Mansfield board of education last night purchased four lots on Cline avenue adjoining a 10-acre plot on which they hold an option.

The lots, which have an 89-foot frontage on Cline avenue and extend back 266 feet, were purchased from Walter E. Rusk, deputy county engineer, for $3,000. The board made a down payment of $750 and will remit the rest in 60 days.

Dr. J. H. Bristor, board clerk, said today it was still uncertain where the board would obtain funds for the remaining payments. He said the board plans to purchase the 10-acre property at Cline avenue and Wood street for $7,000 when the option expires. Funds for that purchase already have been transferred to the general fund.

Meeting in special session with Mansfield architects last night, the board authorized three firms to draw up preliminary plans for a proposed $1,000,000 building program. In the event a PWA grant is obtained and a local bond issue is passed, the same architects will receive contracts for designing the buildings, the board promised.

The firm of Althouse and Jones is working on plans for a junior high school building at the Cline avenue site, while Vernon Redding Associates will submit plans for a new John Simpson junior high school and improvements to elementary buildings.

The architects will draw preliminary floor plans for the buildings without charge, it was pointed out.

Supt. W. L. Miller was authorized to submit an application for a PWA grant when architects have completed the building drafts, which is expected to be within the next few days. The building program already has the approval of the state department of education.

If the federal grant is allowed, it probably would cover 45 per cent of the building cost, or $450,000, Supt. Miller said. The rest would come from a bond issue to be submitted to Mansfield voters when there is assurance that a federal grant can be obtained.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A jury of 12 men was ready today to try Donald Carroll, 16, who killed his 18-year-old sweetheart, Charlotte Matthiesen, at her request because she was pregnant and they had neither the means to marry nor the courage to tell their parents.

Two alternate jurors were to be chosen before the first of the state's witnesses is called.

3 FELONS HIT PRISON GUARD WITH HAMMER

Kidnaper, Shot Through Head During Melee, Dies; Officer Reported Near Death.

FIGHT STARTS ON ROOF

Would-be Fugitives Clash With Guard But Others Subdue Them in Gun Battle.

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO—A desperate, unsuccessful dash to freedom by three Alcatraz Island federal prison convicts today left one felon dead, a prison guard reported near death, and another convict injured.

Death of Thomas P. Limerick, 36, kidnaper serving a life term who was shot through the head by guards, was revealed today by the coroner's office in San Francisco. He died nine hours after the bloody melee as guards quelled the escape attempt.

Fatally Wounded.

Limerick was fatally wounded as the convict trio grappled with a guard on the roof of the factory building where they had been working, after bludgeoning and critically wounding an unarmed guard in the workshop.

In Marine hospital, reported "growing weaker" was Senior Custodian Officer R. C. Cline, 40, who suffered a fractured skull when the felons suddenly rushed him and rained hammer blows on his head.

In the prison hospital was Rufus Franklin, 24, Alabama murderer and bank robber, serving 30 years, shot through the shoulder. Limerick was shot through the head by guards.

As Warden James A. Johnston ordered a complete investigation of the bloody attempted break, the ringleader of the unsuccessful escape attempt, James C. Lucas, 26, Texas bank robber, maintained a cynical silence.

'Vicious Convict'

Clubbed into submission and taken to a dungeon cell, Lucas, described by Johnston as "one of our most vicious convicts," refused to discuss the escape attempt.

"It was just one of those things," he told Johnston. "We thought we could get away with it—but we didn't."

Lucas is the man who stabbed Al Caponie in the June 1936 incident at the prison.

Johnston refused to discuss disciplinary action against the men.

CALLS MORGAN

TVA Probe Committee Opens Testimony Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The widely-heralded congressional investigation into the affairs of the strife-ridden Tennessee Valley authority will formally open tomorrow with Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted chairman, as the first witness.

As the initial step in taking evidence embracing the whole public power question, the committee planned to hear Morgan detail, without interruption, his charges of malfeasance against his former colleagues, TVA Directors Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal.

It was the refusal of the one-time college president to substantiate these charges with evidence before President Roosevelt that resulted in his removal.

REPORT AGAIN

Community Fund Workers to Meet Tomorrow.

Still needing $10,000 to maintain Mansfield's welfare agencies for another year, workers in the Community Fund campaign will meet tomorrow noon at First Methodist church to submit reports on pledges which, it is hoped, will chop a sizeable amount off that figure.

It was decided at the meeting last Friday when reports showed $43,770 of the $53,950 objective raised, to continue the campaign until the goal is reached.

Tomorrow's report meeting is expected to add several thousand more to the total amount pledged.

Missionaries, Back Home From Desolate China, Tell of Atrocities, Destruction

Terror of Bombs Turns to Peace, Quiet After 3-Week Trip.

By JANE WILLIAMS

From the war desolated city of Shanghai, from the terror of Japanese bombers circling the sky above, to the peace and quiet of a Mansfield home is something of a change, but the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Matti made it in three weeks.

Rev. Matti, who is the son of Mrs. Emma S. Matti and a brother of Mrs. Cora E. Jenkins, 426 West Third street, arrived here yesterday with Mrs. Matti, from Shanghai which they left on May 1, stopping for a short time in Tokyo and Yokohoma.

The two Mansfield missionaries who have spent the last 14 years in China, are making their first visit home in more than five years. They returned to China the last time in 1932, when Manchuria was under Japanese fire.

Until a year ago they were stationed in Nanking, leaving when the Japanese concentrated their fire on it, and since then have been in Shanghai, making three trips back to Nanking.

It is in Nanking that the full force of Japanese atrocities has been felt by civilians, according to Rev. Matti. Thirty per cent of the entire city, which once claimed to be the most beautiful in the world, has been destroyed by bombs and fire, he said. On three different occasions the Mansfielders were forced to underground retreats by air raids.

Once, in going from Nanking to Shanghai by train Rev. Mat-

JAIL BREAKERS SENT TO O. S. R.

2 of 3 Youths Who Escaped at Wooster, Get Indeterminate Reformatory Terms.

Two of the three youthful bandits who escaped from the Wayne county jail at Wooster Saturday night only to be recaptured 12 hours later by state highway patrolmen near Columbus, today had been sentenced to indeterminate terms in the Mansfield reformatory.

The two sentenced were Harold Knowlton, 18, Wooster, and Lloyd Tuttle, 20, Orville, jail trusties who had been serving short terms for chicken theft in place of suspended reformatory sentences, when they made their escape with Frank Willard, 24, New York City.

Willard was first arrested May 4 by State Highway Patrolmen L. D. Alexander and C. B. Tieben of the Mansfield sub-station following a gun fight in Loudonville a few hours after he allegedly held up and robbed a Wooster tavern of $12.

Taken to Wooster, he was bound over to the grand jury on a robbery charge and had been in jail pending trial.

Sergeant H. T. Summers of the highway patrol said Willard sawed his way from his cell with saw blades smuggled to him by the younger pair who had been promised money in return.

The officer said that Willard stole a revolver belonging to Sheriff E. E. Mills, and then with the two trusties sneaked to the jail garage where they took a new machine belonging to County Commissioner Eugene Shaffter, and fled towards Coshocton.

The trio was captured at Sunbury, 20 miles north of Columbus early Sunday morning by highway patrolmen.

LETTER BARES RUMANIAN PLOT

Declares Iron Guard Leader Planned to Hitlerize Rumania.

BUCHAREST—(A.P.)—The state today disclosed a letter in which it said Corneliu Codreanu, fascist leader of the iron guards, had sought German help to make Rumania a nazi country in 1939.

The letter was read at a secret session last night of the military tribunal trying Codreanu on charges of espionage and high treason. It was said to have been signed by the iron guard chieftain but he denied all knowledge of it.

The letter, addressed to the German Nazi party, demanded material and moral support for the iron guards.

MEET HERE IN PROTEST ON MILK PRICES

Producers From Richland and Vicinity to 'Air' Complaints Tomorrow.

Protests against prices received for their milk and regulations placed on them by health departments will be "aired" Wednesday night by milk producers from Richland and surrounding counties at a mass meeting at the courthouse, it was announced today.

"Producers are dissatisfied with prices they are getting," one farmer said. He added that producers from this area would be invited to offer suggestions.

The session, called for 8 p. m. at the courthouse, will be the second attempt to get producers together to discuss the milk situation. A previous meeting scheduled to be held at the city building in Mansfield failed to materialize.

Open To All Producers.

While tomorrow night's session will be open to every milk producer in this area, it was understood that no specific organization is sponsoring the meeting.

Regulations for producers in the Mansfield area, which went into effect in April, include, among other demands, rigid inspection of cows for tuberculosis, improved lighting and sanitation in dairy barns, sterilization of utensils in which milk is kept, protection of milk from sun and contamination in transporting vehicles and periodic physical examination of persons employed in dairies.

About 250 producers in Richland and surrounding counties have been invited to the mass meeting, Charles Pittenger, of near Shelby said. He arranged for the use of the courthouse Wednesday night.

Plans are in charge of a group of 25 producers who have been outspoken in their opposition to the regulations governing producers and the prices paid them.

UTILITY SILENT

Has Nothing to Say on New Rates as Council Meets.

With the Ohio Fuel Gas company silent on the question of a new gas rate contract for Mansfield, city council will go into special session tonight to give a second reading to a new rate ordinance embodying identical rates with those in the present contract.

It will be council's second consideration of the gas rates since the last ordinance, a three-year contract, expired 10 days ago. A first reading of the new rate ordinance was held at a special session at which council ignored the gas company's offer that included a "sandbag" clause.

It is expected that there will be little comment of the measure tonight and that council will set the stage for the final reading and the vote on the ordinance at the regular meeting June 7.

CZECHS HEAR BORDER GUARD STRENGTHENED

Army Movement on Austrian Side Discourages Optimism Over Peace Chances.

'BREAK' RUMORS HEARD

Henlein's Departure Leads to Bewilderment in Prague Over End of Parley.

(By Associated Press)

PRAGUE—Reports of new troop movements on the German side of Czechoslovakia's southern frontier combined with interruption of the Hodza-Henlein peace talks here today to discourage such optimism as had developed after central Europe's critical week-end.

In official quarters reports circulated that yesterday's withdrawal of German troops from the border took place only in Saxony and that they fell back only about 20 miles.

On Czechoslovakia's frontier with Austria it was said concentration of German troops actually had increased.

Suspends Negotiations.

The sudden departure from Prague of Konrad Henlein caused suspension of his negotiations with Premier Milan Hodza on the dangerous issues between his Sudeten German party and the Czechoslovak government.

This coincided with reports the Sudeten Germans were demanding withdrawal of Czechoslovakian troops mobilized over the week-end in the Sudeten districts as a condition to continuation of peace talks—a condition Prague officials indicated it would be difficult to meet.

The official explanation emphasized that Henlein had gone to Asch on private business and that conversations would be resumed later, but private reports said there had been a break over the basis for starting the discussions.

These reports said the Sudeten Germans had demanded the "unconstitutional situation in the Sudeten borderland" be terminated—in other words that Czechoslovakian troops be withdrawn from Sudeten areas before serious negotiations were begun to settle their differences over self government.

A demand for "restoration of the right of public assembly" also was attributed to the Sudeten group.

Bans 'Joy Rides' In School Buses After Graduation

If seniors in Richland county high schools take "joy rides" in school buses they will have to take them before they get their diplomas, the Ohio Public Utilities commission warned today.

The rural custom of using school buses for picnic jaunts or to transport graduating students to Columbus or Washington has been "overdone," according to N. F. George, motor transportation superintendent of the commission.

"Use of buses to haul pupils to and from school sessions or school events is perfectly regular," he said, "so long as the pupils are in school."

But pleasure trips are often made after graduation when former pupils have no legal right to ride in buses which use free license plates, he asserted.

"The practice not only is unfair to the department of education which provides free tags, but to the certified transportation systems," he said.

Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, to whom the warning was sent, added that instructions would go out immediately to bus owners in the county.

By VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee, you may not remember, but three or four years ago I felt sorry for someone and wrote you saying I had been married 29 years and never had a real vacation. Since then I have been to New York and Florida. Thanks for your wishes. I am 50 years old and have had six boys and six girls, nine living. They are all pretty well grown up now and we all love to hang together.

"I have a little picture of myself and will send you one. Every one is puzzled how I had such a family and keep looking so young. I cannot answer that question, unless it is I have a good husband and children, go to bed early and have pretty good habits.

"JUST A MOTHER."

I am always so glad to receive a letter like yours. I think you are wonderful. I showed your picture to two young men in the office and asked them to guess your age. Both guessed around 35. It isn't hard work and child bearing that ages a woman—that is, a woman in good health—but worrying and grieving. That is plain. I would like to meet you and your splendid family, and I most certainly was NOT bored with your letter. I enjoyed it immensely. Thank you. I am so glad you had a vacation at last. You certainly deserved it.

"MY DEAR MISS LEE: I have a very dear friend who goes with a boy two years older than she is. Although I know there is nothing serious in it, they think a great deal of each other.

"He has a good job and is really a fine boy, but he is lame. Do you think she should go with him regardless of his lameness?

"O. D. W."

Why should she not go with him? His mind and his morals are not lame. Surely you would not want a boy penalized for a handicap for which he is in no way to blame.

SAD MEMORIES: The boy probably is angry and hurt after receiving your letter saying you did not want to see him any more. At any rate, as you wrote and told him not to come to see you he has no way of knowing that you have changed your mind, so you had better write, phone or see him and tell him so. He may not want to come back, of course, but at least you will then have given him a chance. If he won't, try to be brave about it and in time you will forget.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TOO LAZY TO COUNT

THERE ARE people who either can't or won't add up to 13. Usually they just "wouldn't be bothered." Or perhaps they "only play for fun." Others would like to ask them what fun they can find in just playing any old card. The real joy of the game is in figuring things out.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable).

The bidding on this deal was opened by South with 1-Spade, to which North responded with 1-No Trump. South's next bid was 3-Spades. After 3-No Trumps by North, South showed his heart suit at four and North went to 4-Spades.

West started the defense by cashing the club K, followed by the A. When both East and South followed on both rounds, it was apparent that a switch was in order. The diamond 10 was next led by West and a small card was played from dummy. East decided to hold up his ace to knock off the king. The result was that the diamond Q captured the trick and South had no difficulty in making his contract. His losses amounted to the two club tricks and the spade Q.

Had East been awake and listened to the bidding he would have realized that, as South followed on two club leads and had shown a distribution of six spades and four hearts by his bidding, he held only one diamond.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

FOR A FULL second after Junior had thumbed his nose at his cousin, Hank, and exclaimed, "That for you, you big bully," I could not speak for sheer, shocked astonishment at this sudden exhibition of bad temper from my small son, to whose "manners" Katherin and I have given such meticulous care.

The explanation came from Hank, evidently forgetting where he was and what he was doing, in rage at the insolent flouting of his authority, slapped him with an expertness that denoted practice.

"Don't give me any of your lip!" he shouted. "Do what I told you."

With something that I afterward thought must have resembled a leap, I reached them just as Junior went into action with fists and feet, and Bill seized his brother's arm, uplifted for another blow.

"You blithering idiot!" he said in the voice that I have observed always brings attention from Hank. "Have you gone crazy?"

I whirled Junior around facing me with my hands on his shoulders, and looked down sternly into his distorted face.

"What do you mean by acting this way?" I demanded. Then, as if the question snapped the last remnant of his self-control, he broke into a paroxysm of sobs, all the more terrifying because of the heroic effort he made to control them, and, twisting from the grasp of my hands, threw himself upon me, clinging to me as if he never meant to let me go.

"Henry, you are to blame," my mother-in-law passed judgment in her usual autocratic fashion. "I'm not saying Richard Second wasn't exceedingly rude, and he will be punished, no doubt, but it is plainly to be seen that you must have been bullying the child beyond endurance."

"Bullying him!" Hank, himself patiently goaded, burst out. "He's the laziest, most impudent little runt in New Hampshire and Long Island put together."

"Hank!" Katherine's tone was quiet, but I saw him stiffen at the whip flick in it. "You are too upset to be of any use here. Will you please go directly to your room, and leave things here to Bill and me. Mr. Williams will help us with anything we need."

"And I'll be up to talk with you myself, directly," Mother Graham interposed, and with the feeling that Hank was already doing adequate penance for any past sins, I turned an attentive ear to Katherine, who was speaking directly to me.

"I can attend to everything here," she said. "If you'll take Junior up to your room and give him a chance to quiet down, I'll be up after I get Faith settled and shed a little light on the situation."

She moved a step nearer to me, and spoke from the side of her mouth in the noiseless "prison fashion" Lillian taught us long ago when we were her associates in secret government work during the World war.

Ample Provocation.

"Slack rein!" she said. "There's been ample provocation."

I nodded, and spoke apologetically to Mother Graham.

"If you don't mind," I said, "I'll go upstairs with Junior."

"I fancy I shall be able to attend to things," she said loftily, then struck a more gracious note.

"Of course, you have to see to him," she said. "You naturally are the best one to see to him. But don't be too soft with him. He's been a very naughty boy."

I was distinctly depressed as I shepherded by erring lamb to the shelter of my room. I had looked forward to this reunion with my children so joyously, and now it must be spoiled by disciplinary measures, which, for the good of his soul, I could not avoid.

But Junior himself, his sobs subsiding, his feverish clutch of me loosening, came to my rescue when we had reached my room and I had closed and locked the door behind me. He suddenly stood erect and looked me steadily in the eyes.

"It's all true," he said. "I am a disgrace to the family, and I ought to be sent to the reform school. I'll take any punishment you say. I'll even apologize to Hank if you'll stand right near me while I do it. But please let that be the only time I come near him while he stays. I know I'll fly at him again if he speaks to me just once in that smarty way of his."

THEATER

ANNOUNCEMENT that Ronald Colman will play Francois Villon in a new picture version of "If I Were King" will bring a thrill to the old time theater goers who still believe that the Julia Marlowe-E. H. Sothern stage play of the French vagabond was the greatest of all romantic stage plays in the history of the theater. It was done once before in the silent movies, years ago, and Dennis King and Jeannette MacDonald made a musical picture of it in "The Vagabond King" several years ago, but the romantic drama of the poet, thief and gutter snipe who was king of France for a day won the love of the king's ward, has yet to be made for the screen. Colman seems as good a choice as any, with the possible exception of Fredric March.

"Brat" Is Starred.

Bonita Granville, identified with "brat" roles since her impressive work as the problem child in "These Three" who wrecked three lives with her ill-natured lies, trades on her reputation for this type of role in her first starring picture, "The Beloved Brat," which opens at the Madison tomorrow. Warner Brothers hope that the title will take away some of the ignomy of "brat" roles, which have been known to destroy a player's popularity. Miss Granville did a nice piece of work in "Merrily We Live." In her new picture she is the problem child again, the daughter of a mother and father too busy with their own affairs to look after their daughter. She does everything from playing hookey to running down an aged man and killing him with the car. Dolores Costello and Donald Crisp are in the supporting cast.

"Robin" Remains.

"Adventures of Robin Hood" will remain at the Ohio through Wednesday at least, as the spectacular drama of the 12th century has proven a popular attraction. Laid in the time of King Richard, the Lion-Hearted, the action tells a new story of Sir Robin of Locksley, who jousted in the tournaments with the same reckless daring that he brought to his life as savior of the common people of England. Errol Flynn as Robin and Olivia de Havilland as Maid Marian head a cast that includes Basil Rathbone, Claude Rains, Patrick Knowles, and others.

"Island In The Sky."

Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen were just planning their honeymoon when Whalen, an assistant district attorney, is called on what looks like another routine murder case. But the ordinary case turns out to be the most baffling murder Whalen ever tried to solve. How he and Miss Stuart combine to solve the mystery provides a thrilling plot for "Island In The Sky," opening at the Majestic theater today on the mid-week program. Supporting the two stars are Paul Kelly, Robert Kellard, June Storey and Paul Hurst. The second feature on the twin-bill is "Women Are Like That," with Kay Francis and Pat O'Brien.

'You Can't Have Everything.'

"You Can't Have Everything," with Alice Faye, the Ritz Brothers, Don Ameche and Charles Winninger, is one of the features opening at the Ritz today. The musical comedy revolves around the adventures of the Ritz brothers as they attempt to adapt a tragedy play into a rowdy farce. Ameche plays the role of a succesful New York playwright who falls in love with Miss Faye. And then Louise Hovick steps in and mixes everything up. "Trader Horn," ever popular story of African adventure, with Harry Carey, Duncan Renaldo and Edwin Booth in the principal roles completes the double feature attraction.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Suez" the romantic story of the digging of the canal, is in production, and it has romantic principals in Loretta Young, Tyrone Power and Annabella. But the heavily romantic scenes one expects in a romance will be glossed over lightly.

This is because studios, dealing with historical characters of recent times, are more wary than they might be in stories of a more remote period. Power plays Ferdinand de Lesseps, the canal builder, Loretta is the Empress Eugenia of France—the same who caused the hats of unlamented memory—and Annabella is a fictional character, a desert girl who loves de Lesseps but does not win his love.

As de Lesseps has living descendants, who might object to accented romance as undignified, the usual movie plot expedients are out of order. History will take its course. Eugenie will marry Louis Napoleon, or Napoleon III, and de Lesseps will go away to the big diggings, uncheered by romantic inspiration.

The picture got under way with the unusual distinction of having three directors: Allan Dwan, who's doing the main job; Otto Brower, who does the outdoor, action stuff; and Stanley Logan (borrowed from Warner's) who is tutoring the French Annabella in making herself clear in English.

* * *

A stock player at Paramount named Suzanne Ridgeway is becoming one of the town's most quoted personalities. With ingenuous verve she is alleged to give forth such classics as: "I'm French on my mother's side, German on my stepfather's."

On another occasion, an earwitness tells me, she bemoaned her failure to attend the coronation of the English king: "I'd intended to make the one the year before—oh, how silly of me, because I know they have them only every four years!"

The girl is, of course, dumb like a fox. But we can't help wondering who's writing her dialogue—and if it's her own work, why isn't she doing it for pictures.

I imagine Harry Cohn, the Columbia boss, gets quite a chuckle looking through his letter files. The one, I mean, from that Columbian who wanted to go on record beforehand, in writing, that he thought Cohn's idea for a picture would be a terrible flop. One of those you-can't-say I-didn't-warn-you notes.

The picture was "The Awful Truth!"

IF ROSS IS ROSS, BUILD-UP WON'T HELP HENRY MUCH THURSDAY.

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK—(INS)—As far as this baffled and slightly bifocal eye can reach, there's only one thing to be seriously considered in connection with the world's welterweight championship meeting here, 48 hours hence: Is that really Barney Ross (the Ross of the McLarnin and Canzoneri fights) whose going in there to defend the title against Henry Armstorng—or is it, maybe, Joe E. Brown who has slipped in there while nobody was noticing? Frankly, I wouldn't give Joseph E. Brown much chance. Ross, the "real" Ross, is different; so much, in fact, that if he was any more so, he'd be downright dissimilar. That's why he's 7 and 8-5 in the betting today, a price that's absolutely all right, with one proviso. Ross must be absolutely all right—and not even Ross himself will know about that until the night of the fight. I should say, however, that everybody else seems more sure about it than the fighter.

Barney Ross

And that's why the hired attention-callers of the New York Hippodrome, recognizing a sacred obligation to their public, are turning the steam on Armstrong today. They're, in fact, giving him more blather from a distance than Ross is getting here in town, but it really doesn't matter.

If Ross is actually Ross, the build-up won't help Armstrong. And if Ross isn't, Henry won't need it.

Anyhow, the help around the Hippodrome are occupied right now in calling all the attention they conveniently can at short notice to the announcement that Armstrong has knocked out 35 fighters in his last 37 fights

I deny it. It's utterly without basis of fact It's a canard, a columny, and a bare-faced resort to professional phooey. Armstrong has knocked out one "fighter" (perhaps) in his last 37 fights, namely Petey Sarron, and has beaten another, Baby Arizmendi. The rest of them are just a lot of guys named John J. Nobody.

And if you doubled and redoubled the other two you still wouldn't make one Ross—not, anyhow, the Ross we had fighting around here a few years ago.

* * *

Ross Has Too Much Speed, Class.

THAT Ross, especially in relation to an opponent who, in five months, grew out of the featherweight championship so fast that he went all the way through the lightweight class without even stopping for a change of linen, seems just too much He has too much savvy, strength, speed, class, courage——.

But why go on? It isn't a match If Ross is "that" Ross The only thing is that he has been fighting since 1929, the years have sprinkled his hair with salt and you don't just like the look of his eye. Otherwise, everything seems to be quite as it should in the camp of the champion

Still, for purposes of a prize fight, I'm a little afraid of these young-old men

HEATH DANGEROUS "CLUTCH" HITTER

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Mickey Heath, who has knocked about the minor leagues since 1924, today remained one of the most dangerous "clutch" hitters in the American association.

Heath, 33-year-old first baseman, has been with three association clubs in the past five seasons Over that stretch only once has he hit 300, but with runners on base he generally is poison Heath hammered out a home run with the bases filled yesterday to aid the Milwaukee Brewers in grabbing a 7 to 3 victory over Minneapolis.

Foreign Speedster Presents Formidable Challenge to U. S. Aces at Indianapolis

Nuvaroli Is Major Threat in 500-Mile Motor Classic Billed Monday.

By MAURICE MERRYFIELD

INDIANAPOLIS—(INS)—For the first time since 1930 the ace American drivers entered in the 500-mile Indianapolis speedway classic will have to look to their laurels to prevent first place being taken by a foreign speedster.

Tazio Nuvaroli, Italian crack driver, will be one of the favored entries in the big race. Winner of the Roosevelt raceway event for the Vanderbilt cup in 1936, he has a record of winning a score of the major races on the continent and in United States He has been most effective, however, in distance or cross-country runs, and may find the oval here not quite to his liking

Chief Contenders.

Two of the principal contenders will be Wilbur Shaw, winner of the Memorial day race last year, and Rex Mays, ranked by many as the finest driver on the tracks today.

The "big ten" of American automobile racing, based upon their point standing in the National AAA championships of 1937, are: 1, Wilbur Shaw; 2, Ted Horn; 3, Bernd Rosemeyer; 4, Ralph Hepburn; 5, Louis Meyer; 6, Richard Seaman; 7, Bill Cummings; 8, Rex Mays; 9, Cliff Bergere; 10, Ernst Von Delius.

Of these, only three will not participate in the 500-mile race at Indianapolis. Rosemeyer and Von Delius, Germans who gained their ranking racing in the Vanderbilt cup event in New York, were killed afterward in European crackups. Seaman, a Briton who drove on the German team in New York, will not return to America for this race.

The Indianapolis winner of 1937, Shaw, rolled up the amazing total of 1,135 points to become American champion. His car will carry No. 1 at Indianapolis.

The high deacons of speed will be shooting at shiny new records when they wheel about the speedway because all but one mile post marks were wiped off the books last Decoration day.

Wilbur Shaw, who roared to racing glory with his first win, was accredited with smashing Louis Meyer's 1936 mark for 500 miles. Shaw traversed the course for 200 laps at an average speed of 113.58 miles per hour, comparer with Meyer's 109.069 of the year previous.

All New Records.

Official figures just made public reveal that every record from one lap, two and a half miles, up to 80 laps, 200 miles was crushed like an eggshell last year. The 200- mile mark of 1936 was left standing in solitude at 114.526 miles per hour, and Shaw, who was leading the race at that point, still holds the credit for it because of his unusccessful race in 1936.

Hits For Reds

FRANK McCORMICK

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WHILE there may be quite a race for the National league's "rookie" honors this season you could look a long way and still do no worse than to pick Cincinnati's Frank (Buck) McCormick as the best young cloute of the year

Strictly speaking this six-foot, four-inch giant who took over the Reds first basing duties this spring isn't quite a rookie He played most of the 1937 season with Syracuse after hopping from the Piedmont league to double A company He came up just long enough to get the feel of major league opposition and hit 325 in 24 games with the Reds

That was all McCormick needed to become a real big leaguer He started out in training camp to look like this years most promising youngster and he's kept right on to outshine such prominent rivals in hit producing as Max West of the Bees Johnny Rizzo of the Pirates and Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals

Bucks .353 batting average third best in the league is one important reason why the Reds are up in third place He has made 18 hits, 14 of them doubles to lead the circuit in those two departments of swatting and all-in-all he's a very handy fellow to have around

His 14th double came at a important moment in yesterday's five-run third-inning rally that enabled the Reds to beat Brooklyn 6-4. Coming with two on base and two runs already in, it brought in another and ended Bill Posedell's pitching efforts McCormick scored the fifth tally on Lew Riggs' hit and he added another in the seventh after getting on base by forcing Ival Goodman who made four of Cincinnati's 12 blows.

Reds Will Back Mansfield If City Still Wants Team

Ohio State League President Expected to Confer With Baseball Leaders Here Today.

PRESIDENT HARRY SMITH of the Ohio State league was expected in the city today to determine the possibility of Mansfield re-entering the Class D baseball circuit.

Smith notified Frank A. Voegele, who served as president of the Mansfield Red Sox last year, that he can obtain an affiliation for Mansfield with the Cincinnati Reds if the city is still interested in rejoining the league.

Due Here Today.

Voegele said that he informed Smith that he will not take an active interest in baseball this year because of business interference, but the league president stated that he would come to the city today to confer with other persons who took an active interest part in gaining a tie-up with the Boston Red Sox last year.

Voegele was informed by Smith that the Reds would agree to place a team in Mansfield under the same arrangement the Boston club operated last year. A Booster Day was sponsored by a citizens' committee last season.

The Cincinnati club had a tie-up with Fremont last year, but it was not renewed. Fremont is operating independently this season.

Although the season is already under way, Smith told Voegele that the Reds can place a team in Mansfield at a momen't notice.

Marion Returns.

Attempts to get Mansfield to return to the circuit are prompted by the decision to Marion to again take a franchise in the league. Marion will be backed by the Indianapolis club of the American Association, Smith said.

Teams which have already started play are Tiffin, Fostoria, Fremont and Findlay.

MEET CALLED OFF

The triangular track meet scheduled at Ashland yesterday was postponed because of rain. It was to have involved the Mansfield high reserves, Ashland and Canton Lehman.

Ohio State Hit By Ruling

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio State university was one of the many schools where football is engaged in on a large scale, which felt the sting today of the U. S. supreme court ruling that the federal admissions tax is valid.

To Ohio State, which has been collecting the tax and turning it over to the federal government under protest, the decision meant also delay in construction of an athletic field house south of the stadium.

The university has handed over to the federal tax collectors more than $100,000 in admissions tax in the last several years, L. E. St. John, athletic director, said.

Had the tax been held invalid St. John said Ohio State would have used its $100,000 refund to start work on the field house, but now that must be deferred.

McCarthy Sold on Henrich As Yankee Right Fielder

Selkirk Will Have to Fight Hoag, Powell for Left Field Post on Return.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—He's a nettled Joe McCarthy these days, what with a fare of spring freshets on his current tour, but he feels his second place New York Yankees are "doing well to be as near the top as we are."

The world champions "rested" again yesterday, their scheduled second encounter of a three-game series with the pace setting Indians postponed.

Not Enough Action.

"How can they be the same old Yankees when they spend their time sitting around hotel lobbies waiting for it to stop raining," explained "Marse Joe." "We've had so many postponements we don't know what we look like on a ball field"

But inactivity hasn't been the pilot's sole source of worry. It seems that—

"On opening day Selkirk got hurt and hasn't played since," said McCarthy. "At this time a year ago George was our big punch. For the first two weeks, Lou Gehrig didn't get enough hits to count. And for two weeks Joe DiMaggio wasn't even with the ball club.

"Do you expect us to lose three guys like that and still make a runaway of the race? We're doing well to be as near the top as we are."

DiMaggio's spring training season holdout doesn't rankle his teammates, says McCarthy.

"Then Ruffing hasn't pitched since May 8 on account of a cold and touch of 'flu. And they wonder why we aren't ten games in front!"

When Selkirk's ready to return to his outfield duties McCarthy said, it will not mean that Tommy Henrich, the Massillon, O., slugger, will have to relinquish the right field garden where Selkirk formerly presided.

"A Good Player."

"The right field job is Henrich's," said McCarthy. "He's a good ball player; going to be a great one. Selkirk will go to left, unless Hoag or Powell happens to be going hot when he's ready."

Lefty Gomez will oppose Johnny Allen today unless, of course, it rains.

MANSFIELD BOY GETS LETTER AT ACADEMY

Douglas J. Hill, 240 Park avenue west, was one of eight to receive reserve letters for participation in indoor polo at the Culver Military academy, according to a dispatch from the Culver, Ind., school.

Foul Tip Puts Lopez On Bench

BOSTON—(AP)—An enforced vacation of "six or seven weeks" was in prospect today for Catcher Al Lopez of the Boston Bees, whose right thumb was fractured yesterday by a foul tip off the bat of Second Baseman Bill Herman of the Chicago Cubs.

The forecast was made by Dr. Edward J. O'Brien. A year ago the catcher broke a finger and was out of action more than a month.

Prospect Tilt Tops Schedule

Hartman, Tappan Teams Meet Wednesday.

Heading the Commercial softball league program Wednesday night is a game between the undefeated Tappan Stoves and Hartman Electrics at Prospect park

Nick's Place, also unbeaten, tangles with the Page Dairys at North Park. The Dairys and Dominion Electrics, who meet the Miller Dairys at Johns park, did not play last week in the opening games because the diamonds on which they were scheduled to perform were wet.

The Dominion club is the defending champion, and the outcome of its game Wednesday will give followers of the league a line on its strength.

The Sweet Oils face the All-State Freights at Liberty park in the other game on the schedule.

MID-ATLANTIC LEAGUE 28 GAMES BEHIND SKED

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Mid-Atlantic League was exactly 28 games behind schedule today. Blame it all on the rain—and a bit of cold weather up Erie way. There were no games last night. It was too damp on all fronts. As is is, only 56 contests have been completed out of 84 games.

REX BILLIARDS SEEK GAME FOR NEXT SUNDAY

The Rex Billiards, who defeated the Mt. Vernon Merchants last week, seek an out-of-town game for next Sunday. Call John Stoner at Dover 1965 or write to 268 Park avenue east.

Beats Fischer With Stymie

Yates Advances to Second Round in Scotland.

TROON, Scotland — (AP)—Charley Yates of Atlanta, scoring at the expense of one of his American Walker Cup teammates, and Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans today joined six of their fellow cuppers in the second round of the British amateur golf championship.

Yates, wearing the "lucky red flannels" given him by Bobby Jones, beat Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati with a stymie on the nineteenth green. Haas, wearing his Louisiana State university sweater with a big block "L" which baffled the Scots in the gallery, routed A. J. Ashworth of Scotland, 7 and 6. Haas reached the turn in 34 to be 5 up, and closed out his rival three holes later.

Out in 33 to be three up at the turn, and four up after the tenth hole, Yates wobbeld in the face of Fischer's magnificent fight on the back nine and lost his lead on the home green, where he sliced into the sand.

At the 19th both were well on in two, Fischer ten feet from the cup and Yates nine. Putting first, Fischer rolled a foot and a half past. Yates then missed, his ball stopping directly in front of Fischer's.

Johnny took out his old, cracked-shafted niblick and tried to jump the stymie, but his ball hit Charley's and stayed out of the cup.

Yates had 33-40—73 and Fischer 36-37—73.

Speed Trials Near Deadline

INDIANAPOLIS — (U.P.)—Thirty-four racing car pilots gained an extra day to tune their mounts today before resuming qualifying trials for the 19 remaining positions in the annual 500 mile grind Memorial day

Trials will be held again tomorrow and the contenders for the last of 33 places on the starting line likely will need a mark of at least 118 miles per hour to qualify.

Among the 34 were three former speedway champions—Kelly Petillo, Fred Frame and "Wild Bill" Cummings. Petillo already has taken two unsuccessful trips over the 25 mile trial course. His third and last was scheduled for tomorrow.

PIVOTAL GROUP BOLSTERS LIST IN SLOW MART

Show Mild Improvement as Buying Incentives Fail to Stir Traders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Mild improvement in pivotal issues helped prop the stock market today after a hesitant start.

Steels, motors, coppers and aircrafts, along with a handful of specialties, got up fractions to around a point near the second hour. Dealings were about as slow as in yesterday's session.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Foreign securities markets did better.

Buying incentives for stocks, brokers said, were none too abundant. While the brighter European situation was moderately cheering, little stimulation apparently was derived from congressional activities.

Recovery proponents advanced the opinion that statistics on current operations in the major consumer goods industries, when compared with the trend of retail distribution, provided support for the belief an early upturn was due in these lines.

On the other hand, it was thought likely merchandising organizations serving agricultural regions would suffer as great a decline in dollar volumes during the weeks ahead as are experienced by stores in urban areas.

'AIR ARTILLERY' LATEST IN U. S. DEFENSE PLAN

Army Designs Bomber to Fly to Europe and Back With Cargo of Explosives.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Enshrouded in secrecy, the army air corps has developed "aerial artillery" which will reach to Europe or half way across the Pacific, if necessary, to defend the United States from attack.

In what is regarded as the most revolutionary forward step in aviation since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's solo flight to Paris, the air corps has designed a bombing plane which will fly nonstop from the United States to Europe and return, carrynig a heavy cargo of bombs.

The bomber, International News Service learned today, will be the largest and most formidable military airplane the world has ever known.

In size, speed, range, bomb capacity and protective armament it is believed to be years in advance of the military aviation of any other power.

Would Encircle Nation.

The ship has been designed with the specific aim of girdling the American continent with a mobile ring of steel to meet and annihilate any hostile fleet before it could reach mid-ocean should a European or Asiatic power ever launch an attack on this country.

The need for such long range bombers was graphically illustrated in the recent war games of the air force on the eastern seaboard.

The bombers are designed as a powerful striking force to protect one coast in the realization the navy is powerless to defend both the Atlantic and Pacific at the same time.

It is now fully acknowledged by the army and navy high commands that the day is fast approaching when the United States no longer will be able to depend upon the two oceans as secure protective barriers against aggression.

For reasons of national defense full details of the projected new bomber cannot be revealed. These general facts, however, can be disclosed:

In appearance, the bomber will be similar to the sensational four-engined ships which already have given the United States the most advanced and most formidable high-speed long-range bombing arm in the world. Its speed will exceed 250 miles an hour.

The four-engined bombers which made the record flight to Buenos Aires and return this winter, and were the smash feature of the GHQ war games, have a gross weight of 35,000 pounds. Their bigger sister, the XB-15, of which the army has only one, weighs 60,000 pounds, is 90 feet long and has a wing spread of 150 feet.

The new bomber, as designed, will weigh 150,000 pounds, will have a wing spread in excess of 200 feet, will probably be armored with small cannon, firing high explosive shells, as well as eight or ten mahcine guns and will carry a crew of about 20.

It will carry several tons of bombs and its range will approximate 8,000 miles.

LECTURER GETS NAZI APOLOGY

Woman From U. S. Disrobed and Searched at Port.

BERLIN—(INS)—Officials of the Hamburg-American line today tendered their formal regrets to Mrs. Lewis Rose, lecturer and radio commentator of Hartford, Conn., who was disrobed and searched on her arrival at Cuxhaven aboard the liner Hansa Friday.

It was explained that Nazi customs authorities occasionally carry out a "test search" of various arrivals of any nationality as part of their drive to prevent currency smuggling.

The inference was that Mrs. Rose merely had been chosen at random for the test search.

Good Advice About Constipation!

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, don't fiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are you won't have to look very far, if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely, you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ORDINANCE NO. 38-38

By MR. SHULTZ:

An ordinance authorizing the issuance of mortgage revenue bonds on the Water Works system of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, under Section 12 of Article 18 of the Constitution, to authorize the mortgage of said system and the extensions thereto with a pledge of the revenue thereof and to provide a franchise to become effective in the event of foreclosure of said mortgage.

Whereas, Ordinance No. 38-46 passed the 26th day of March, 1938, authorized the construction of certain water mains and an elevated tank in the city of Mansfield, Ohio, in cooperation with the Federal Works Progress Administration and appropriated $10,000.00 for a part of such improvements and declared the necessity of issuing mortgage revenue bonds in the sum of $64,000.00 on the Water Works System for the payment of the city's share of the cost of water main extensions as described in Section 1, Subtitle C of said ordinance, and for the elevated tank as described in Section 1, Sub-title A of said ordinance.

Whereas, this Council has requested the City Auditor to issue his certificate as to the estimated life of the improvement proposed to be made from the proceeds of the bonds hereinafter referred to, and the City Auditor has certified to this Council such estimated life as exceeding five (5) years and has further certified the maximum maturity of the bonds as forty (40) years. Now Therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO:

Section 1. That to provide a fund for the purpose of extending, improving and enlarging the Water Works System of the City (hereinafter sometimes referred to as the "Utility" or "Public Utility" and which shall at all times be interpreted as including the distribution mains thereof) by the construction of water mains, elevated storage for the Woodland District, as set out in the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles therefor in the office of the Director of Public Service, and authorized by Ordinance No. 38-46, passed the 26th day of March, 1938, it is deemed necessary to issue and sell and there shall be issued and sold mortgage revenue bonds of the city in the principal sum of $64,000.00, which shall be secured only by a mortgage upon the property, comprising the Water Works System, and an exclusive first lien upon and payable primarily from the gross revenues of said system, and upon all extensions, improvements, replacements and alterations at any time made thereto after provision only for the reasonable operation and maintenance expenses thereof, including a franchise, stating the terms upon which in case of foreclosure, the purchaser may operate the same and further secured by the covenant of said city to maintain certain rates and collect certain charges for the facilities and service afforded by said Utility; provided however, that nothing in this ordinance shall be construed as pledging the general credit of said city to the payment of said bonds or any part thereof or interest thereon. That said bonds shall be issued in one lot and that anticipatory notes shall not be issued in anticipation of the issuance of said bonds.

Section 2. That mortgage revenue bonds of the City of Mansfield shall be issued in the principal sum of $64,000.00 for the purpose aforesaid. Each of said bonds shall be in the denomination of $1000.00, and each bond shall be dated May 1, 1938, and shall bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum, payable semi-annually on the first (1st) day of May and November of each year until the principal sum is paid, and the first interest date being November 1, 1938, provided however, that if said bonds are sold bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore specified such bonds shall bear such rate of interest as may be provided for in the resolution of Council approving the award thereof. Said bonds shall mature as follows: Eight bonds of $1000.00 each, on each November 1st from 1939 to 1946 inclusive. Said bonds to be numbered from one to sixty-four (64) both inclusive, which maturities are hereby determined to be in substantially equal, annual installments. The principal and interest of all of said bonds shall be payable at The Mansfield Savings Trust National Bank in said City of Mansfield, Ohio, in such funds as are on the respective dates of payment of the principal and interest on the bonds legal tender for the payment of debts to the United States of America.

Section 3. That said bonds shall express upon their face the purpose for which the same are issued, that said bonds are payable only out of the gross revenue of the Water Works System and extensions thereto, and are secured by a mortgage upon the property comprising said Water Works System, and a franchise stating the terms upon which, in case of foreclosure, the purchaser may operate said utility, which franchise extends for a period of twenty (20) years after the date of sale of said utility upon foreclosure. Said bonds shall recite that they are issued in pursuance of Section 12, Article 18 of the Ohio Constitution, the general laws of the State of Ohio and this ordinance. Said bonds shall be entitled "First Mortgage Water Works Revenue Bond" and said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and the City Auditor and sealed with the corporate seal of said city. The interest coupons attached to said bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of the City Auditor. Said bonds shall be properly issued and delivered under the direction of the Mayor and Auditor. Upon the face of each of said bonds shall be recited the following conditions and provisions, to which said bonds are subject:

"This bond is subject to the conditions, and every holder hereof by accepting the same agrees with the obligor, and every subsequent holder hereof, that:

(a) The delivery of this bond to any transferee if not registered, or if it be registered, and the last registered transfer be to bearer, shall vest title in this bond and the interest represented thereby, in such transferee to the same extent and for all purposes as would the delivery under like circumstances of any negotiable instrument payable to bearer;

(b) The obligor and any agent of the obligor may treat the bearer of this bond, or if it be registered in the name of a holder, then the registered holder of this bond, as the absolute owner thereof for all purposes and shall not be effected by any notice to the contrary.

(c) The principal of and the interest on this bond will be paid, and this bond and each of the coupons attached thereto are transferrable free from, and without regard to any equities between the obligor, and the original or any intermediate holder or to any set offs or counter claims.

(d) The surrender to the obligor or any agent of the obligor of this bond and of each of the coupons if not registered or if it be registered and the last registered transfer be to bearer, or the receipt of the registered holder for principal hereof if this bond be registered in the name of a holder, shall be a good discharge to the obligor for the same.

Section 4. That said bonds shall first be offered at par and accrued interest to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund in their official capacity, and if said trustees refuse to take any or all of said bonds then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law under the direction of the Finance Committee and the Auditor, but not for less than their par value and accrued interest. The bond sale advertisement shall state that anyone desiring to do so may present a bid or bids for such bond, based upon their bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore fixed, provided however, that where any fractional interest rate is bid such fraction shall be one-fourth (¼) of one percent (1%) or multiple thereof. The amount of the bond or certified check to accompany bids shall be $640.00. The proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest, shall be used only for the purpose of paying for the aforesaid improvements to the Water Works System of the City of Mansfield. The premium and accrued interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the Sinking Fund to be applied in the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds herein authorized in the manner provided by law.

Section 5. That from and after the delivery of any bonds issued under the provisions of this ordinance the entire income and revenue of said Water Works System shall be set aside and deposited by the Treasurer in a separate and special fund, which is hereby created and designated as the Water Works Revenue Fund. Said revenue fund shall be administered as follows:

There shall first be paid from said revenue fund the reasonable cost of operation and maintenance of said system, including replacements and depreciation, and there shall also be paid from said fund into the bond account from month to month such amount as will be necessary to pay the principal and interest requirements of said bonds on the next ensuing interest and bond maturity date, plus an additional margin of 20% of the principal and interest requirements for each current year for so long a time as is necessary to create a surplus equal to the principal and interest requirements of the bonds for the next succeeding two years, which said funds shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds when and as the same fall due. Provided, however, that no further payments need be made into said bond account after the amount held therein equals the entire amount of principal and interest that will be payable at the time of their maturity on all bonds then remaining outstanding. Should the revenues in any one year be insufficient to meet all the aforesaid charges of the bond account, and should any surplus theretofore created be impaired for any reason, the amount of any such deficiency or impairment shall be paid into the bond account from the first available revenues the following year, and shall be in addition to the other requirements of the bond account.

Section 6. That the Sinking Fund Trustee, or their successors in office shall have charge of the bond account.

Section 7. The rates for services rendered by said system to the City for its services and for other users shall be reasonable and just, but in any event shall at all times be sufficient to produce gross revenues adequate: (a) To pay the reasonable and proper expenses of operation and maintenance of the utility, including necessary replacement and depreciation, and (b) to pay when due the principal of and interest on the bonds herein authorized including all charges and excess funds required for the bond account under Section 5 hereof.

Section 8. It is hereby convenanted and agreed by the City with the holder or holders of the bonds herein authorized and with each of them and with the trustees for said holders hereinafter provided for, that the City and each and every officer thereof will satisfactorily and punctually perform all duties with reference to said utility required by the Constitution and Statutes of the State of Ohio, by this ordinance and by the mortgage hereinafter provided for, all and each of which duties are hereby defined and established to be duties specifically enjoined by law resulting from an office, trust and station within the meaning of Section 12283 of the General Code of Ohio, and said City hereby irrevocably covenants, obligates and binds itself so long as any of the bonds are outstanding not to issue additional bonds pledging any portion of the revenues of the System except for revenue producing extensions, replacements and additions; provided, however, that no such additional bonds shall be issued unless the earnings of the system for the fiscal, operating or calendar year immediately preceding the issuance of such additional bonds shall have been equal, after deduction of operation, maintenance and reasonable repair and replacement charges, to 120% of the principal and interest requirements for the next ensuing fiscal year on account of the proposed issue (such requirements as to principal to be determined by dividing the amount of the next issue by the number of years to the final maturity date of such issue.) Then and in such case the City may issue additional mortgage revenue bonds, limited as aforesaid, for revenue producing extensions, replacements and additions to said system, to be secured by a mortgage and pledged revenues secondary in lien to the mortgage and pledge covering the present issue.

Section 9. Until the bonds herein authorized shall be fully paid, the City shall operate said public utility and maintain the same and all part thereof in constant good order and repair and maintain insurance which normally would be carried by private companies engaged in a similar type of business in a minimum amount of the full insurable value of said public utility, and shall furnish to the purchaser of said bonds or to the trustees under said mortgage full and satisfactory reports, audits, statements, and other information from time to time in such form and detail as may be requested by either of them, and shall permit any authorized representative of any holder of twenty-five per centum of said amount of outstanding bonds to inspect the system and all records, accounts and data of the System at all reasonable times.

Section 10. In order to secure the payment of the principal of and the interest on said bonds as the same shall become due and payable the Mayor and Director of Public Service are hereby authorized and directed in the name of and on behalf of the city to make, execute, acknowledge and deliver to the purchaser, and to his heirs to its successor or successors in trust for the purchaser or purchasers of said bonds a good and sufficient first mortgage deed, attested by the Auditor, upon all the property of said public utility now owned by the City and all such property acquired from the proceeds of said bonds together with all extensions, betterments and additions to said public utility at any time made or acquired by the city during the time any of said bonds shall remain outstanding and unpaid, consisting of the Water Works System of the city and all machinery or equipment used or useful in connection therewith, the distributing mains of said utility, all valves, meters, fire hydrants, manholes and all other property and supplies forming a part of said public utility, including all real estate and rights in real estate owned by said city in connection with said public utility. Said mortgage shall be in such form and shall contain such terms, covenants and conditions not inconsistent with this ordinance, as shall be approved by the purchaser of said bonds and the Solicitor of said city. Said mortgage shall contain a condition that in case the city shall make default in the payment of any of said bonds or the interest thereon or of any of the terms of said mortgage or this ordinance, the owners or holders of 25% in amount of said bonds remaining unpaid or the trustee for said bond holders on his or its own initiative, may elect to declare the entire amount of said bonds due and payable, and that upon default in the payment thereof said mortgage may be foreclosed. Said mortgage shall also provide that the city shall carry insurance which normally would be carried by a private company engaged in a similar type of business in a minimum amount of the full insurable value of the public utility payable to the trustees thereof as its or their interest may appear.

Section 11. In the event of any litigation commenced or pending in any court having jurisdiction, in which the said city is a party involving the said water works plant and system; the operation of the same; the revenue from the same; or wrongful performance of failure to perform any of the terms and conditions of this ordinance, and there is at such time any default in the payment of any of such bonds or interest when and as the same fall due; the court, having jurisdiction of such cause, may appoint a receiver to administer and operate said Water Works Plant and system on behalf of the city of Mansfield, Ohio, with full power to pay and to provide for the payment of such mortgage bonds outstanding against said Water Works plant and system, and for the payment of the operating expenses, and to apply the income and revenue to the payment of such bonds and interest thereon in accordance with this ordinance and the provisions of the mortgage securing such indebtedness. The power of such receiver to provide for the payment of bonds that are due and outstanding shall not be construed as pledging the general credit of said city to the payment of said bonds, or any part thereof or interest thereon. Such receiver shall have such power, under the direction of the court, as receivers in general equity cases and as provided by Section 3619-1 of the General Code of Ohio.

Section 12. That in the event of the foreclosure of the mortgage provided for in the preceding section the purchaser or purchasers at such foreclosure sale shall be entitled to operate said Water Works System as improved or extended under the terms of the following franchise, which is hereby ordained and established to take effect immediately upon the confirmation of such foreclosure sale, to wit:

FRANCHISE TO CONSTRUCT, MAINTAIN AND OPERATE A PUBLIC UTILITY KNOWN AS THE WATER WORKS SYSTEM IN AND OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, OHIO, UPON AND UNDER THE STREETS, LANES, ALLEYS, AVENUES AND OTHER PUBLIC THOROUGHFARES OF SAID CITY AND TO FIX AND PRESCRIBE THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH SAID OPERATION SHALL BE CONDUCTED.

A. Hereafter when the word, "grantee," appears in this franchise it shall be held to mean and include the purchaser or purchasers at judicial sale upon foreclosure of the mortgage on the Water Works System of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, and any person, association of persons, partnership or corporation who shall, upon such foreclosure, become the owner of said public utility and this franchise shall inure to the benefit of such person, association, partnership or corporation and their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns.

B. In the event that any judicial foreclosure shall be had of the mortgage hereinbefore described and referred to in this ordinance, and the mortgage property shall be sold under such proceedings the grantee is hereby granted the right for the full period of 20 years from the date of such foreclosure sale or the final confirmation thereof, if such confirmation be then required under the Ohio procedure to construct, maintain, operate and extend upon, along and under the streets, lanes, alleys, avenues and other public thoroughfares and public property of the said city in the County of Richland and State of Ohio, with the full and necessary privileges for the use of the streets, lanes, alleys, avenues and other public thoroughfares or property for the purpose of constructing, erecting, maintaining, operating and extending water mains, valves, meters, fire hydrants, manholes and all other apparatus necessary for the operation of the Water Works System for all purposes.

C. This franchise shall be held to apply to and give the right to own and operate all the property rights and interest owned or operated by the said city as its public utility therefor known as its Water Works System, including the distribution mains with all extensions, betterments, replacements and new equipment which have been made or added thereto by said city prior to the taking effect of this franchise together with the extensions and betterments which may thereafter be made from time to time by the grantee during the life of this franchise.

D. The grantee in the construction, maintenance extension and repair of said public utility shall not unnecessarily interrupt or obstruct the passage upon any street, lane, alley, avenue, or other public thoroughfare or property, and whenever it shall in any way open any of said thoroughfares or property for the construction or maintenance of any underground construction, it shall replace such thoroughfares and property in as good condition as before undertaking such work. The grantee shall hold the city harmless from any liability cost, damage or expense which shall arise or be caused by the occupancy or use of the streets, lanes, alleys, avenues or other public thoroughfares or property by said grantee.

E. The grantee in the operation of said public utility shall be subject at all times to such reasonable regulations of the council of the said city as shall not interfere with the ability of such grantee to earn a fair return upon the reproduction cost of said utility, less depreciation, after proper allowances for operation and depreciation or replacement.

F. For a period of 10 years after the taking effect of this franchise the grantee may charge the following rates for supplying the services of the system to the corporation and inhabitants thereof:

1500 cu. ft. or less in 6 months $3.30 per house or apartment as case may be. Next 13,500 cu. ft. 22c a C. Next 30,000 cu. ft. 17c a C. Next 60,000 cu. ft. 11c a C. Next 120,000 cu. ft. 9c a C. Rates to users outside the city same as above, subject to Sec. 3967 of General Laws of Ohio.

Services rendered the inhabitants of the city shall be payable as follows: Properties east of Main Street are due January 1—15 and July1—15. Properties west of Main Street are due April 1—15 and October 1—15.

Fire hydrant rentals shall be paid by the city at the rate of $35.00 per hydrant.

Services rendered to the city by said utility for public purposes shall be charged against the city. The payments to be made by said city to said grantee for such services to be furnished to the city shall be paid to the grantee quarterly on or before the 10th days of March, June, September and December in each year during the terms of the contract and in order to provide means for the payment of the annual budget and taxation and appropriation ordinances each year during the term of this contract obligates itself to include and to levy a sufficient sum on all the taxable property in the said city to pay for the services rendered as aforesaid, the proceeds of which levy shall be placed in a fund to be designated as the Water Works System Fund, and which taxes when collected shall be held inviolate for that purpose.

G. In the event that the above rates, which are minimum rates, not maximum rates, shall prove insufficient to enable said grantee to earn, after payment of operating expense, maintenance and a reasonable allowance for depreciation, a net return of 8% upon the reproduction cost of said utility after making reasonable allowances for depreciation of said utility since the time of its installation, and after taking into consideration the adequacy of the maintenance thereof, the City, by appropriate ordinances, shall raise such rates sufficiently to produce such return as provided in Section 614-44 of the General Code of Ohio, except that it shall not be necessary for said city to wait until one year before the expiration of said period, but the duty to increase shall arise forthwith upon request of the grantee, whereupon, in the event that such action by the city is not taken, complaint may be filed to the Public Utilities Commission or its successors in office, and proceedings had before said Commission as provided in Section 614-44 et seq. of the General Code of Ohio. The grantee's right to complain to said Commission shall be cumulative to its right to enforce the performance of the above imposed duty on the city under the provisions of Section 12283 of the General Code of Ohio.

H. For the second ten year period of this franchise the rate to be charged by said grantee shall be fixed by the council of said city by and with the consent of the grantee or by the Public Utilities Commission or its successors in office in the event of the inability of the city and grantee to agree, but, in any event, the rates shall be such as to enable the grantee to earn a minimum of 8% upon the reproduction cost of said plant, less depreciation, as hereinbefore provided, as determined by the Public Utilities Commission after payment of operating expenses, maintenance and a proper allowance for depreciation or replacement.

I. This franchise shall take effect immediately upon the confirmation by the court of the foreclosure sale of the property covered by the mortgage of the city to the purchaser of the bonds secured by said mortgage and the trustee designated therein.

Section 13. Each section of this ordinance and each sub-division of any section thereof is hereby declared to be independent, and the finding or holding of any section or sub-division of any section thereof to be invalid or void shall not be deemed or held to effect the validity of any other section or sub-division of this ordinance.

Section 14. The City Auditor is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor as required by Section 2293-25 of the General Code of Ohio.

Section 15. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Signed, K. P. TROLL,
President of Council.

Circus Gun Battle Leads to Wounding of 2 Deputies.

BEATTYVILLE —(AP)— State highway patrolmen investigated today a gun-battle at a circus here that left two men dead, six persons wounded and caused performers hurriedly to strike their big top and leave this little mountain town.

The dead were Barlow Durbin, Charles Blount, both of Beattyville, Ky. The wounded were Deputy Sheriffs John Mays and Robert Allen, both of Beattyville; Lincoln Moore of Beattyville, William Walden and his son, Donald, 8, of Ida May, Ky., and an unidentified circus employe.

Allen informed Mayor Tommy Pryse the shooting started as the deputies attempted to arrest Durbin on a charge of drunkenness.

Workmen Find It In Concrete Poured In 1921; It Lives.

VINCENNES, Ind.—(AP)—Workmen tearing down concrete fence posts on the farm of Paul Fry, former state director, saw a dark object in one post that had been poured in 1921.

They extracted a flattened toad from the concrete. Fry said it revived and hopped away after being doused with water.

'Peasants' at May Festival

Five pretty "peasants" in colorful dresses and aprons, will sell ice cream and candy tonight at the May festival staged at Stadium field under the auspices of the Senior high school P. T. A. A program of music, dancing and dramatics will be presented. From left to right the Senior high "peasants" are Doris Kiraly, Virginia Williams, Vivian Walters, Kay Glessner, and Betty Love.

SHIFT SENIOR HIGH'S MUSIC FESTIVAL TO STADIUM TONIGHT

In a last minute change, the Senior high school spring music festival, scheduled to be held on the school lawn tonight, was transferred to Stadium field, it was announced today.

The change was made because of the condition of the lawn in front of the building, soggy from rains during the past week, making it impossible to erect bleachers for spectators.

Lights will be strung along the east and west sides and across the field at the stadium. In case of rain tonight, the festival will be postponed until Wednesday, and if it should rain again tomorrow, it will be moved back to Thursday.

The evening program will include selections by the high school band, A Cappella choir, German band, vocal solos, dramatic readings, folk and tap dance numbers and instrumental novelty numbers.

Park plan dancing will be held throughout the evening in the gymnasium with Harold Duda and his orchestra furnishing the music.

The event is being sponsored by the Senior high school Parent-Teacher association.

MISSIONARIES TELL OF WAR

Couple, Back Here From War-Torn China, Point to Atrocities.

ti traveled only by night and the train was kept in total darkness. Rushing through the night, the passengers suddenly heard the hum of motors in the air, and looking up counted the lights of five Japanese planes circling over the approximate path of the train.

The train was brought to a stop and passengers were told to run and find shelter where they could. Rev. Matti, stumbling through the dark, heard a bomb explode about a hundred feet ahead of him, and when the planes had gone and they could look after the injured, he found that four had been killed and six wounded by the shell.

He went on to Shanghai and arrived a few hours after a bombing raid had killed 1,000. The bodies were still in the streets and the crude wooden roughboxes were piled high along the streets.

Japan, eager to counteract the bad impression that her activities in China have created throughout the world is constantly on the alert for favorable propoganda, and many of the responsible officers are fighting to prevent depredations by their men, Rev. Matti says. He tells of watching a Japanese officer pose for his picture as he handed food to a Chinese woman and child at their front door—while at the back door of the house the officer's soldiers were looting and plundering the home.

Discussing stories in yesterday's newspapers that the Chinese were demoralized and fleeing at Suchow by the thousands, Rev. Matti said:

"Japan will never win the war in China unless leaders turn the country over to them, and I can't believe they'll ever do that. After all this fighting, and billions poured into the war by Japan, what has she gained? A few key cities that barely touch the vast territory that is China. Japan has advanced less than 500 miles in a country twice the size of the United States.

"And Japanese troops in these cities are beset with new troubles, for Chinese guerrilla bands from the outside descend on them and cut off their supplies. China can and will lose ten men to Japan's one. All of Japan's victories in the cities will mean nothing so long as China remains united with one purpose."

He described the means that Japan is using to demoralize China, the wholesale spreading of narcotics among refugees and in cities that Japan holds, the wholesale ravishing of Chinese women with the thought of propagating a new generation of Chinese-Japanese children that will break down national morale.

On the other hand, Japan is heading for stormy weather at home, according to the Mansfield missionary. He talked to Japanese friends when they stopped there on the way home, and was told that Japan is seriously divided on the war. The people at home have learned only what the military wanted them to learn about the number of casualties, but returning wounded soldiers are bringing another story.

They are alarmed also at the mounting cost of the war in China and their increasing taxes. One of the most alarming phases of their war is the boycott of Japanese-made good in all parts of the world.

Rev. Matti said that as he and his wife and friends stood on the dock before leaving Japan they saw great cargoes being loaded onto Japanese ships, and the boxes of Japanese goods were labeled "Made In China." This, he believes, is a last desperate attempt of the Japanese to overcome the world boycott.

Rev. and Mrs. Matti hope to return to China in October, because the need of relief workers and the Christian influence is needed more than ever among the bewildered and war-driven Chinese. And he hopes to return to his class of Chinese lepers near Shanghai which has been a part of his work the past year.

GERMAN TROOPS STIR NEW ALARM

Czechs Hear Border Guard on Austrian Side Strengthened; Dims Peace Chances.

lein talked for more than two hours last night and were to have met again today with two Sudeten German members of parliament.

Last night's talks between Hodza and Henlein were said to have been "encouraging" although of purely an informatory character.

Official quarters in Prague were frankly dubious about the chances of meeting any sweeping demands on troop withdrawals.

It was pointed out that there are elections next Sunday and June 12 and that withdrawing troops would be to invite a resumption of disorders such as almost led to war last week-end before the first set of municipal elections last Sunday.

Aside from the possible election disturbances there were other potential sources of disorder it was explained.

The funeral of the two Sudeten German victims of last Friday's frontier shooting is tomorrow, and the government feels troops should be on hand to prevent any possibility of untoward incidents.

Hitler Hurries Back to Berlin.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN — Renewing fears that Germany may not be satisfied with the status of the Czech-Nazi crisis, Chancellor Hitler was en route to Berlin from his Bavarian retreat today.

There were reports many German officers had been recalled to their barracks, and trains moving toward the German frontiers were reported still packed with troops.

In this connection, the Nazi newspaper Der Angriff, in a special dispatch from Prague, said it had learned the Czech mobilization will be maintained for a month more.

Hitler entrained for Berlin accompanied by several of his aids. It was reported he had summoned a special meeting of his advisors at the German chancellery tonight or Wednesday.

Despite assurances that Germany does not intend to use military force in solving the Sudeten-Czech autonomy controversy, an indirect denial of reports that Germany had flatly stated she would not march against Czechoslovakia was contained in authoritative comment issued this morning by the German press.

LOSES 98 LBS.!

Cheno Plan Reduces Waistline 22 Inches

"These pictures prove I lost 98 pounds of fat. In 1931 I weighed 238 pounds, wore size 56 dresses with GUSSETS set in sleeves and hips. I had an operation. I tried starvation, difficult exercises and EVERY reducing formula I saw advertised—and yet I continued to pile on weight. Then I started the CHENO PLAN. Now I weigh 140 pounds, wear size 18 in misses' dresses. All my friends can hardly believe that such a MARVELOUS change could take place. My doctor says I'm 100% physically."—Suzanna Thompson.

100 Fat Women Reduced in Tests With Cheno Plan

—all victims of nutritional obesity—without exception, reduced through the waistline and hips first. They showed a marked improvement in skin and muscular tone. Some women HAVE REDUCED FROM SEVEN TO OVER SEVEN POUNDS IN THIRTY DAYS . . . with improved health and no harm to physical condition.

Where your excess ugly fat is due to lack of calcium or iodine or to acidosis combined with a high caloric intake—the CHENO PLAN will reduce your body measurements, take excess pounds off your weight, giving you a more slender, graceful figure—without in any way endangering your health. Your skin and general muscular tone will improve, as your fat fades away.

Popular demand has completely wiped out the stock of 1937 Servel Electrolux gas refrigerators. This demand is reflected in the sale of 1938 models, too. This year's sales to date, have exceeded any previous year in our history. Families by the hundreds are turning to gas refrigeration because of the three big advantages it offers over other types — (1) permanent silence, (2) freezes without moving parts to wear out and (3) operates at lowest cost, averaging less than 2 cents a day.

Mrs. Anna Abel, 1549 E. 32nd Court, Lorain, Ohio, writes—

"Silence, low operating cost, no moving parts in freezing unit to need repair, efficiency and economy—all make a Servel Electrolux the outstanding refrigerator in my opinion. I would feel lost without one."

Still Going Great In '38

Why not let gas refrigeration bring lasting economy to your kitchen? The savings made possible by a Servel Electrolux will actually pay for it in a surprisingly short time. A convenient payment arrangement enables you to install a new 1938 model at once. Visit The Gas Company and find out the reasons why gas refrigeration is STILL GOING GREAT IN '38.

Mrs. Ralph Beaver, 138 County Line St., Westerville, Ohio, says—

"Our gas refrigerator has never cost us over 70 cents a month to operate. We especially like its silence, too. It keeps milk at even temperature and gives us all the ice cubes and frozen dessert we want."

CITY READY TO ASK TRANSFER TO AID NEEDY

Question of Taking $50,000 From Sinking Fund for Relief Up to Judge.

With relief bills already totaling $20,000, city officials prepared to file a petition in common pleas court today seeking the transfer of $50,000 from the sinking fund to the city's poor relief fund.

While city officials had "nothing to say" following a meeting with the sinking fund trustees and Judge C. H. Huston yesterday, they indicated that the petition which has been in the hands of Judge Huston for the past several weeks would probably be entered on the docket today.

Council more than two months ago authorized City Solicitor Marion D. Ward to file the petition with the court in order to obtain the necessary funds to meet food bills for the balance of 1938.

Hinges On Obligations.

Judge Huston must rule on the petition before the transfer of the funds can be made. The question of whether the city will be able to meet its obligations if the transfer is made, appears to be the major issue.

City officials said they were told by the sinking fund trustees several weeks ago that the transfer could be made and that they would still be able to meet their obligations to the sinking fund. H. G. Miller, secretary of the sinking fund, said last week that the trustees would have to reconsider the transfer and do a little "bookkeeping" before they could again agree to the offer. He explained that the board had recently agreed to buy $21,000 in general bonds, authorized by council for improvements in two city departments.

APPROVES LOAN

School Board Orders Clerk to Borrow $10,000 for Wages.

Its general fund nearly exhausted again and with little prospect of any immediate help from the state, the Mansfield board of education last night authorized Dr. J. H. Bristor, clerk, to borrow $10,000 to meet teachers' salaries next week.

While it is not uncommon for the board to borrow against future allocations of state school foundation money, the loan will be the first in several months that has been authorized by the board itself.

Dr. Bristor said the schools have a general fund balance of $13,900, while bills amounting to more than $18,000 will be due next week. The amount covers teachers' and employes' salaries

The loan, which the board expects to retire in August from county tax collections, will finance the schools until the middle of June, Bristor said

FACING FLOOD THREATS AGAIN

Southern Ohio Hardest Hit by Heavy Rains; Corn Planting Hampered in Richland.

Beseiged by rainstorms for the past 10 days, the Richland county area enjoyed a brief lull today as the mercury dropped to 51 degrees to put a damper on the rain.

Other sections of the state, worse afflicted than the north central area, watched rivers flood highways and newly-planted cornfields and hailstones rip holes in roofs and smash glass windows.

The weather forecast predicted continued fair and cool for tonight, but Wednesday was expected to be cloudy and warmer, bringing a threat of more rain.

County Agent George B. Ganyard said farmers in Richland county have been seriously hampered in the past two weeks in their corn plantnig. A number of them have little or no corn planted because of the continued rain, he added.

The flood threat grew today in the southern part of the state where the Ohio river spread over hundreds of acres of bottomlands. In other sections, washouts ruined the corn which was beginning to show above the ground.

Hailstones, said to be "as large as goose eggs" fell yesterday near Bremen in Fairfield county, damaging crops, greenhouses and the roofs of buildings. Damage from hail also was reported at Chauncey, near Athens, and in Morgan county.

THIRD PARTY IN PENNSYLVANIA GAINS SUPPORT

Independent Political Groups Negotiate for 'Pre-empted' Party Ticket.

(By Associated Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The possibility of a third party entering Pennsylvania's general election in November took on new significance today with the disclosure that independent political groups—Democratic and Republican—had been negotiating for a pre-empted party ticket.

Charles W. Carroll of Philadelphia, pre-emptor and gubernatorial nominee of the Pathfinder party, said he had been approached by several groups interested in taking over his ticket. He added:

"I haven't decided what I'll do yet. I'm just sitting tight for the time being."

Under Pennsylvania election laws, independent parties must be pre-empted before the primary. However, there is nothing to prevent the nominated candidates of a pre-empted party withdrawing after the primary in favor of another slate.

Go to Capital.

Carroll's statement came as leaders of the defeated Democratic faction led by U S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffey and CIO Chief John L. Lewis headed for a Washington conference, which a spokesman said was called by Guffey and designed to formulate a future policy for the group.

In the primary Guffey and Lewis backed a slate which was defeated by the Democratic state committee-endorsed candidates, including Charles Alvin Jones for governor and Gov. George H. Earle for the U. S senate The Guffey-Lewis ticket was headed by Thomas Kennedy for governor and Philadelphia's Mayor S Davis Wilson for the U. S. senate.

The primary fight split the party wide and only one state leader of the CIO-Guffey forces, Walter A. Jones, Pittsburgh oil man, has declared for the nominated ticket.

Most of the third party talk centered about Democratic factions.

Carroll did not disclose who on the Republican side had approached him regarding a possible third party ticket.

TALKS TO CLUB

Elyrian Tells Rotary Political Influence on Wane.

Pointing out the potential resources of the United States as assuring a return of prosperity under sound governmental policies, J. B. Johnson, of Elyria, division manager of the Ohio Public Service company, spoke at today's meeting of the Rotary club on "The Vanishing Influence in American Politics."

This vanishing influence, he asserted, is the lack of interest in politics on the part of many citizens who do not even take the trouble to become acquainted with officials and who show little concern about the kind of men selected to fill various important public offices.

Examples were cited from history to show dangers involved when nations lost the guiding influence of intelligent citizenship and fell under the domination of ignorance and radicalism.

Dr. S E. Findley was chairman of the meeting, at which Louis Hartman, vice president, presided.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

IT IS a wonderfully satisfying feeling when one has worked away from home an entire day to think the time has come to return again to all that is dear and precious.

I remember well when I was first out of school and took a job 600 miles away. I grew homesick after several weeks had passed. I could not sleep well, I did not care to eat the most appetizing food. Even in my busiest hours, I would find only one consoling central thought. My dreams were centered round my simple, humble home. On those ethereal nightly visits my mother met me at the door and kissed me many times, my father warmly shook my hand and bade me stay. They gave me of the food I happily roamed over the fields to gather. They feasted me on the sincere joy of meeting once again. But when I awoke, my head was pillowed in a strange bed . . . I was 600 miles from home.

Once during that year I traveled this entire distance just to be at home with my parents and younger sister for three short hours.

Now, to be away from the home my wife and I have made, for one whole day, is all I can endure. The very thought of coming back at evening time is pleasant and stimulating. When I first make the turn into our long drive I see one or two or sometimes three little happy children start out the road to meet me. As they come nearer I hear three voices in chorus, "Daddy, Daddy, Daddy!" Of course I stop, take them on, and kiss and hug each one. They tell me all the news that happened since I left as I slowly drive them to the house. There on the porch, sitting securely in his strong cloth swing, the one-year-old throws his chubby hands and cries, "A-da! Da-da!" My wife stands in the door and waves me a cheery welcome. The best of any journey is getting home.

CHAPTER XIII

"I must apologize," Clay began, "for calling at so late an hour. But I had to see you. I've been parked down the street a little way, waiting for your caller to leave.. May I sit down?"

Without waiting for permission, he helped himself to a place in the swing beside Larry.

"I think you know why I am here," he resumed abruptly. "I didn't know a thing about it, Larry, until after dinner this evening. You believe that, don't you? That means almost more than anything else."

"Yes," a low voice assured him, "I believe it."

"I was simply stunned when my uncle told me what he had done," Clay went on impetuously. "I couldn't believe it. You see, we had an understanding that I was to assume general charge of accounting in the office. I went ahead and made my plans. Of course, I intended to tell my uncle all the details when I had completed them."

"Then he didn't know that you were going to have me help you."

Larry said that in a tone of quiet conviction. As if it were something that had troubled her, something that Clay's words had made clear.

"No. He didn't know that," the latter admitted honestly.

"Then that wasn't the reason ...he asked me to leave. It doesn't make much difference."

"It makes all the difference in the world. It was utterly unjust to us both. And I didn't spare any words when I told the old gentleman how I felt."

"Oh, you didn't quarrel!" Sudden anxiety in Larry's voice.

"I wouldn't dignify it that way," Clay told her grimly. "I gently told him that it was evident that he expected to dominate the lives of everyone that worked for him and that he'd overshot the mark this time. I should have known that he'd try it...after all I've heard about him, not to mention what I've seen for myself. Anyway, I convinced him finally that he hadn't given you a square deal. He told me to get word to you to come in tomorrow morning and go to work."

"Oh..." It was a smothered little sound.

"Well? Are you going to?"

"No!" Larry's voice was tense with anger. "What does he think I am!"

Clay relaxed with a sigh.

"If you had said anything else, Larry, I...I think I would have turned you over my knee. Tough as it is to be without a job, I knew you'd tell him to go to the devil and said I hoped you would. Well, that leaves us both in the same boat."

"What do you mean?" she asked in sudden apprehension.

"Merely that I told him I was through with him and all his works."

"No, no! You can't do that! You musn't!"

"Who says so? Look here, Larry. Aside from the raw deal he gave you, how do you think I feel? Making it plain that I was to have a free hand if I saw any chance to improve the business, then, the first time I show any initiative, step in and undo it all. Where does that leave me? The laughing stock of the whole outfit. That's the answer. The thing that grinds me hardest is that I can't do anything to square it all with you. I can apologize for having let you in for this.... apologize for having anything to do with a concern that does business that way. But the plant belongs to Uncle Romoulus, lock, stock and barrel. Beyond that I'm helpless. Except to cut myself loose from it all."

"But, Clay!" Larry broke out desperately. She forgot for the moment that he was Mr. Odell. "You musn't do that! Why should you spoil your chances over something that wasn't your fault? I'll feel dreadful, if you do. Please.."

"Look here, Larry." Clay's voice was more nearly gruff than she ever had heard it. "You inferred once, in a very nice way, that my respected relative was something of a heel. I'm sorry I didn't take your word for it then. But I don't have to be a heel, and that's the way I'd consider myself if I went on holding down my job, after you'd been thrown out of yours. The more I think about it, the more convinced I am that I'd lose every shred of self-esteem I have. No, sir. Besides. I never could carry any weight around the office after this."

"Tell me." Larry said quietly, "does anbody in the office know that you were planning to....to change my work? Anybody besides your uncle?"

"Why, no. I guess not. I hadn't said anything."

"Neither had I. Except here, last Saturday night. I'm afraid I bragged a little. But the folks won't say anything. Truly, they won't. Don't you see? Everybody will think that Mr. Wardlaw asked me to quit just because...just because he didn't like me. It won't make any difference in your work. You can give that new job to...somebody else."

"Oh, sure I could! I can keep right on as if nothing had happened. You would make a pleasant bounder out of me, wouldn't you? A job doesn't mean that much to me. We may as well quit beating about the bush, Larry. You're thinking that it all was because you were kind enough to be a friend. I want you to know that I pick my own friends and always intend to. And I'm particularly proud of your friendship, Larry Layne. My only regret is the stiff price you've had to pay for it. And my one ambition, right now, is to see that you won't be too sorry."

"I'm not sorry."

"Funny thing. When I came to Norwood, Uncle Romulus insisted that I sign an agreement. One of the provisions was that if either of us wanted to end the contract he had to give thirty days' notice. Mine is in. That leaves me twenty-nine to turn around in. A lot can happen in that time. Maybe we'll both get a good break."

Larry's next words showed that she had been thinking over that explanation about the contract.

"Will you please tell me something?"

"Of course."

"What did your uncle say when he found you were going to leave the mill?"

"He snorted, naturally. My motives wouldn't appeal to him... not sufficiently businesslike. He considered it a gesture."

"But he didn't want you to leave."

"Well, no. But more because it was silly than from any deep affection for me. I believe he said something about my being an amazing young fool. I'm not so sure he isn't right...not for the reasons he had in mind, however."

"And that was why he was willing to let me come back to work, wasn't it? He told you to tell me I could, if you'd stay."

"Oh, I think it was more because he realized he had been pretty unfair to you. In fact, he said something about giving you a raise some day. That doesn't tempt you?"

"Of course not. And it isn't true...I mean he made the offer in hopes you'd stay. You can't quit. You musn't."

"My mind's made up, Larry. More than ever. I did tell him I'd pass on his decision as regards you, but I didn't tell him I'd reconsider my own. I'm not worried about myself. I'm thinking of you."

"Please don't."

"I can't help it. Of course it's too soon for you to have made any definite plans, but do you mind telling me what you're going to do?"

Larry thought over the situation quickly. Not for words would she let Mr. Odell know how important it was that she find another place as soon as possible. Or that she was rather terrified over her prospects in general. It was different for him. He could stay where he was or, if he didn't want to, he was free to go anywhere he liked. The fact that he was leaving the mill on her account seemed worse than her own misfortune. There was no reason for it. No reason for it at all, and it hurt...

She tried to assume a careless attitude.

"Oh, I don't know. I hadn't thought much about it yet."

"I've no right to ask, Larry. But is another position pretty... pretty essential?"

"Why, no," she fibbed, with a coolness that surprised herself. "Well, I'd rather be busy, of course. There's no fun loafing in a place like this. And most any girl likes to have her own pin money...feel independent, you know. I don't mind having my vacation now. I had expected to take it next month, anyway, so it doesn't make a great deal of difference."

"I see."

Clay said it so soberly that a spirit of impish perversity appealed to Larry. With a deliberate attempt to be flippant, she remarked:

"I might decide to get married. Then I wouldn't have to worry. Don't you think that would be a rather good idea?"

"No. I don't think so."

If Clay had been less intensive with the answer, Larry would have dismissed the issue. But, because he was, she was tempted to carry it a little further.

"Is that very nice?" she asked demurely, smiling to herself in the darkness. "It might be providential."

"Are you trying to tell me that you're engaged?"

She could feel his eyes searching her face.

"No...not exactly. I could be."

"I don't doubt it. What do you mean by 'exactly'?"

It was so much more than Larry had bargained for that she was completely taken back. Nothing to do now but to brazen it through in some fashion. She tried to laugh, conscious that it was a complete failure. Then, scarcely knowing what she was saying, she blundered on:

"It really is funny. I guess it doesn't happen to a girl very often...be fired and proposed to all in one day."

"I see. You mean you didn't give the gentleman his answer."

"No..."

* * *

That was the worst of telling a lie like that. You started, and you had to keep covering up. She didn't owe Mr. Odell any explanation of her personal affairs. It certainly wasn't in very good form for him to ask questions. Larry overlooked the fact that she was the one who had made it possible.

"I see."

Mr. Odell pondered in silence. Larry was half expecting he would want to know who the man was. But he had no more questions to ask. Instead, he remarked quietly.

"I'm glad you told me that, Larry. And I'm more glad that you didn't say yes to this chap. I hope you wont."

"Wh...why?" she stammered, unable to believe her ears.

"Because," came a calm voice from the gloom, "I want an option on you for twenty-nine days. You see, Larry Layne, I love you."

TUESDAY, MAY 24, 1938.

Jersey City's mayor is apparently not willing to concede that every dogma should have its day.

The principal trouble with William Green, of the A. F. of L., seems to be that he has too much common sense to be popular.

A lawn mower is said to possess all the therapeutic value of "a gymnasium, a tennis court, an 18-hole golf course, a half-mile track and a medicine ball"—but try to get that across to the man of the house or his young son.

Free Speech Threats.

THE American people seem quite ready to defend themselves against government censorship, if that is threatened. There are other censorships, however, already in existence, to which too many are indifferent—possibly not even aware of them.

We curtail each other's freedom of speech and assembly by various taboos and by group pressure. There are organizations which bar everything "controversial" from their platforms.

In some communities, public opinion or group pressure has prevented parent education classes from discussing religion, birth control and sex education. In others, boards of education have refused use of school buildings for evening meetings if peace was to be the topic of discussion. Public conscience or public prejudice has imposed other censorships on radio, public libraries and public schools.

In many cases the censorship seems justified at the time, but the tendency is dangerous unless it is clearly recognized and understood. Wherever it represents intolerance of a viewpoint different from that of an influential group of citizens, it is a denial of that freedom of speech of which we speak so glowingly on the Fourth of July.

Word comes that a Texan, after getting a WPA job, slept uninterruptedly for 40 hours. Nothing is so conducive to sound sleep as a sense of security.

Wealthy Cleveland's Dire Distress.

NATIONALLY publicized as the large city in which the depression has reached its greatest depth, with urgent need for millions of dollars of state and federal funds with which to stave off starvation for thousands of families, Cleveland turns out a crowd of 62,244 cash customers for a Sunday afternoon ball game, packs its numerous theaters and night clubs, and complains about traffic congestion on its streets.

From all of which it appears that Cleveland represents the modern version of "a typical American city" that has grown too fast for its own good and is unable to function properly except under most advantageous conditions.

It has become the prevailing practice in recent years for cities to run to the state and federal government for financial help on the slightest provocation, the idea seeming to be that such money comes from some mysterious source without placing the burden of re-payment on anybody.

The question naturally arises, if such a large and wealthy city as Cleveland cannot provide sufficient money to take care of its own needy people, how can smaller and less favored cities and communities be expected to handle their own relief problems and also share in taking care of impoverished families in Cleveland and other large centers of population.

While there has been encouragement of the idea that state and federal government is obligated to furnish the money to meet local relief needs, the fact remains that there is no state or federal money except as it is supplied by taxpayers, and that it is primarily the responsibility of each community to feed, clothe and house its own poor.

Columbus authorities are investigating complaints that operators of a "numbers" racket failed to pay off. Can't anybody be trusted anymore!

You Can't Fool the Lie Detector

WITH many people there is an inclination to be skeptical about new things while with others there is an inclination toward hyper-credulity that makes them easy victims of smooth-tongued schemers or over-enthusiastic visionaries.

Bringing to mind that there has been much skepticism about the gadget known as a "lie detector," which has gradually been coming into use within the past few years as a means of determining whether a person is telling the truth—usually in the case of someone charged with a crime.

The idea is that an unavoidable physical reaction accompanies any statement that departs from the truth and that this registers on a chart which is a part of the apparatus.

When someone in whom you have implicit confidence submits to such a test, for the purpose of convincing himself of its efficacy, you are inclined to lose the feeling of skepticism, as, for instance, when Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, tells of his experience with a lie detector in the following way:

> "I went over to the office of Police Chief Allen the other day. After they had strapped a bandage around my arm and another across my heart, they asked me questions. In answering their questions I lied with as much calmness and indifference as I could muster, but they caught me every time. In 95 per cent of the cases, the delicate machinery of this lie detector registers the bodily reaction which follows even the slightest emotion.
>
> One cannot tell a lie without the inevitable reaction on breathing and blood pressure. It is only a matter of getting a machine fine enough and delicate enough to register that reaction.

So, if you have any lying to do, you'd better get it out of the way before lie detectors come into vogue as standard equipment in business transactions.

More Books for Mexicans.

HERE is something surprising. It is a country that frees all imported books from duties and stamp taxes.

Mexico is the foreign land that has taken this liberal step. The idea is to further culture in Mexico.

Here is an attitude in cheering contrast to the present German rule of barring entirely all foreign books which seem antagonistic to Nazism and burning even those classics long familiar in Germany but which, in recent years, are considered too liberal to be safe.

Apparently Mexicans are to be allowed to read any books they choose, and their freedom of choice is secured by making it easier to obtain books from other lands.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

WHEN one reads English papers, one obtains a different view of the Latin American trade situation. The English say that the Americans are cleverly taking Latin American business away from them. English writers go further—they say Americans are expert propagandists. That probably is news to the Americans.

It probably isn't that Americans are expert propagandists, but their products speak for them. American automobiles, movies, refrigerators, radios have a worldwide popular appeal, if a country permits them to enter.

In some American quarters, there is a hint that British interests are trying to embroil the U. S. deeper in the Mexican oil dispute so that the Americans will gain no advantage while the dispute is going on.

CHAMBERLAIN GOING?

Evidence continues to pile up that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's Tory regime in Great Britain may meet disaster prior to the end of the year.

The British people are becoming alarmed over developments. It is one thing to "make peace" with the Fascist nations, and another thing to have peace.

Italy not only has imperiled Gibraltar, but it is getting a foothold for air bases in Spain. The same is true of Germany. And Germany is waging an intense Nazi propaganda to the west, as well as to the east. Evidently, the Chamberlain government has not headed off any penetration to the west—which means toward the British Isles. The Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland are none too secure.

And France lives in dread of Britain's next move. For France has sacrificed much to follow in the footsteps of the British Tories. The French people are beginning to believe that this much has been far too much. But France is heavily in financial debt to the British —and it must follow.

French fear over Spain created a new crisis between Italy and France the other day, with charges shouted on both sides. The outbursts simply intensified the fear of the French.

* * *

MISTAKE?

A large part of the French people never will be convinced that Great Britain did not make a vital mistake when it "forbade" France to come to the aid of the Spanish Loyalists.

In fact, there is a feeling in France that Great Britain itself will regret it—and soon.

Unfortunately, Mussolini and Hitler were able to make a religious issue of their Spanish venture—as France sees it. But—the French ask—what will happen to the church if Hitler becomes predominant in Spain?

And it will be Hitler, in their opinion, not Mussolini, who will have final say in Spain, if and when the Loyalists finally are exterminated. For German military, business and propaganda agencies are far superior to the Italian, and Germany is a more powerful nation, one that insists upon dominating in any deal.

A conquered Spain will be a Nazi Spain, as the French see it. Already, on the insurgent side, there is anti-British, anti-French, anti-American propaganda. This will be intensified. And it will be as ruthlessly ruled as Austria under the Nazis.

Spain is being conquered, taken away from its people, for its military worth, its mineral resources and its value as a spear pointed in the direction of the Soviet Union—and France, according to the French view.

Austria, Spain — what next? That is the French fear, and the Dutch fear, and the Belgium fear, and, of course, the Czechoslovakia fear. But it, also, is becoming the English fear. It is a fear that many generate a Labor government in England, and a complete change in foreign policy by 1939. That is the reason Hitler acts quickly.

Regarding City Airport.

Editor News-Journal:

Granting that money was possibly "wasted" on the development of our municipal airport, though at the same time pointing out that a large amount has been put to a useful advantage, I wish to render a deserved, softer tone to the criticism which Jane Williams has made concerning the present landing field when she wrote of it as being a "nice green pasture field."

I believe her comment particularly unfair in lack of consideration for the fine effort and the ceaseless energy which has been expended in the temporary improvements by J. R. "Bud" Harrington, local airport operator, and his associates. All of the worthwhile work which these men have donated to our port to place it in at least a respectable condition until permanent construction may be undertaken, certainly deserves greater credit than "hay field" classification.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

GOD WANTS A CHANGED LIFE: To what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices unto me? saith the Lord: for I am full of the burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts; and I delight not in the blood of bullocks, or of lambs, or of he goats. —Isaiah 1:11.

A DRAGON BY THE TAIL

Japanese 'Victories' Discounted

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON —Washington's army, navy and state departmental authorities do not regard Japan's recent successes in China as very significant.

These experts are of the opinion that Japanese bad luck in its Asiatic mainland campaign had piled up to such an extent that it no longer could be hidden from the mikado's home folk and some victories were absolutely necessary to re-establish a modicum of morale among the islanders. Consequently, as it is seen by America's professional observers, Nippon's commanders concentrated on a few Chinese weak spots and wiped them up in short order, giving the Japanese a handful of apparent triumphs to brag about for domestic consumption.

Otherwise, it is suspected, the Tokio government soon would have found its subjects in an outright revolutionary frame of mind.

How long the effects of the latest shot in the arm will last is problematic.

* * *

AMOY UNDEFENDED

The Japanese seizure of the Chinese port of Amoy is illustrative.

Amoy is an important city. Accounts of its capture by Japan's marines must sound thrilling in Tokio and Yokohama.

However, it is pretty well to the southward down the Chinese coast and on the oceanic edge of an inland area which has not been touched by the Oriental war. Therefore it was not defended. Maybe it ought to have been, but China is a country which is only just organizing. It admittedly is unprepared.

* * *

"A TRIFLING STUNT"

Amoy also is within easy ferrying distance from the Japanese insular stronghold of Formosa.

It was a trifling stunt for a fleet of the mikado's transports to cross the strait and grab the city. A few hundred men were enough to hoist the island ensign right there.

But let a substantial number of hundreds of thousands of them try to penetrate to the eastward beyond the city wall!

Millions of embattled Chinese are waiting to oppose them.

As I have said before, a regiment of United States marines doubtless could cross a hostile China—if it could maintain its line of communications, keeping itself supplied with ammunition and assuring itself of enough to eat.

However, China closes up in the rear of an invading body, as water closes up after a passing ship.

It is so with the Japanese.

* * *

WHY JAPAN "WINS"

Ditto in north China, along the line of the Lunghai railroad.

In a closeup engagement the Japanese win. They have immensely the better equipment and discipline, but they're swamped as to numbers.

One man with an automatic, may be a match for two dozen, armed with carving knives, but not for 200. Not if the 200 are resolute, as the Chinese seem to be.

The man with the automatic exhausts his ammunition.

Japan appears to be exhausting its resources.

* * *

IF EMPIRE TOTTERS—?

There is talk to the purport that the Japanese empire is tottering.

It is a question what would happen if the Tokio regime were to blow up.

China scarcely could be expected to grab it.

Russia might.

There will be more stories of Japanese successes on the Asiatic mainland. They need to be taken with a barrelful of salt each.

Japan is regarded, at least in Washington, as having undertaken to bite off, internationally, a vastly bigger mouthful than it can chew.

The Japanese still are trying to chew it, at that.

They have no option—but to chew or choke.

Health Advice

First Aid Is Essential In Home.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

NEGLECT of a simple injury, even a scratch, may lead to serious blood poisoning. This is not a pleasant suggestion, yet it is true. This is why I wish to point out the importance of efficient first aid. In every home there should be facilities for such treatment. This should be applied regardless of how trivial the accident may seem.

According to several insurance surveys, a goodly number of dangerous accidents take place in the home. In these, the reports indicate, all too often, the wrong thing is done. In many instances serious complications could have been avoided if proper and immediate emergency treatment had been given.

It is important to remember that a wound or a contusion may permit the entrance of dangerous germs. For this reason the damaged tissues should be thoroughly cleansed with warm water and soap. Following this procedure an antiseptic should be applied and a clean bandage placed over the wound.

Your efforts should not stop at this point. What has been done so far is no more than first aid. Further treatment should be given by your doctor. Medical attention is absolutely essential if the pain continues and the swelling increases.

Bleeding Is Common.

Bleeding is a common home emergency. It may occur as a result of a fall, a blow or a single cut. The bleeding may be so profuse as actually to be dangerous.

To control such bleeding, a constricting bandage or a home-made "tourniquet" should be applied. A handkerchief knotted around the limb, or a necktie, piece of rope or a belt tied about it, can be tightened by slipping a stick under and twisting it. This device should be placed just above the level of the wound.

It is dangerous to allow the tourniquet to remain in place for any prolonged length of time. If there is any delay in the arrival of the doctor, the tourniquet should be loosened occasionally and then reapplied.

Accidental poisoning is another common home calamity. It frequently occurs in children who mistake dangerous drugs for candy. Such drugs should be carefully labeled and placed beyond the reach of children.

Severe burns as well as internal poisoning ccaused by the accidental use of lye and other caustic solutions are common home accidents. These chemicals should always be kept in a separate container apart from other receptacles that are used daily.

When poisoning occurs and if the antidote is not known, a doctor should be called without the slightest delay. Until he arrives, encourage the victim to drink large amounts of water. If you know the antidote, administer it at once.

Timely Editorial

Helmets For Batters.

Despite a lukewarm attitude on the part of most baseball players, club owners and fans, agitation continues for the adoption of some sort of protection for batsmen against the danger ensuing from their being struck in the head by a pitched ball, either accidentally or as a result of being "dusted off." Most of the agitation centers around a specific remedy, a padded helmet shaped like a polo headgear and coming down well over the temples. It was first suggested after the accident to Mickey Cochrane.

The helmets were tried out this year in quite a few spring training games and the venerable Connie Mack, who is said to favor their general use, was photographed for publicity purposes, the other day, wearing one.

The apathy with which the helmet idea has been received is typical. Organized baseball is slow to warm up to innovations of any kind.

We venture to prophesy that the helmet eventually will become standard equipment.—Columbus Dispatch.

Listen, World!

Get Rid of the Human Junk!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

GREAT TIME, this house-cleaning season! What tons of trash it eliminates!

There's that set of hand-painted salad plates Cousin Mattie gave you when you were married, 'way back in 1903. Nasty, gritty things —always set your teeth on edge whenever you tackled the lettuce, didn't they? Well, they're gone, thank goodness! And there's that Onyx Clock the gang at the office gave you when you got your first promotion. Antiquated as old King Tut—didn't go with a thing in the house. Glory be, that's liquidated!

And all those shelves full of obsolete junk . . . "hair receivers" . . . "burnt work" boxes and pine comb picture frames . . . dozens of dinky little guest room towels no one used . . . bed jackets, trick doilies . . . even found an old mustache cup, didn't you?

But now it has all gone with the Big Wind. Caused a number of fairly nippy scenes, of course. You still can't quite see—can you, Bill? — why Marge should have thrown away that old fishing basket you had back in Hi School days, even if you have seven new ones. And you wept some big, wet tears before you gave away all those Christmas necktie Bill has refused to wear — didn't you, Marge? Such Perfectly Lovely Ties! If Bill would only trust your taste instead of wearing that ratty old blue and white affair, year after year!

But, taking it all in all, housecleaning is certainly a blessing. The house looks different—more restful and mature. The walls seem more spacious without that clutter of meaningless pictures . . . you're able now to enjoy the beauty of that one, good print . . . there's a simplicity and serenity you never felt before. It's a happier, healthier home — a home with more meaning — just because you cleaned out the junk.

Good job of housecleaning! J'ever stop to think of applying that job to the human knick-knacks as well as the material ones? J'ever stop to think that you were cluttering your life, as well as your house, with useless gadgets?

You used to wonder why home seemed tiresome—why it unconsciously tired and wearied you. Now, after the wise little wife's housecleaning, you know the reason. You know that meaningless clutter was distracting and wasting you. But "meaningless clutter" may be human as well as material. There are people as silly as any embroidered guest towel . . . as ugly in their impractical sentimentality as poorly glazed, hand-painted salad plates . . . as obsolete to our current tempo and technique as an onyx clock.

Actually, if you had the courage to face it, you'd find that 75 per cent of your list of friends and acquaintances mean as little to your life as you mean to theirs. They are neither interesting, decorative or practical. They come to you for exactly the same reason that you go to them—to kill the time which they have neither the courage to face bravely nor the wit to use beautifully.

They are human clutter—idlers, loafers, chatterers, gossips, parasites—and you waste and deface your life if you give them a place in it.

Then why do you do it?

Because you are afraid to be alone! You do not know how to provide amusement or interest for yourself . . . you do not know how to "repose within yourself," studying and developing your own resources . . . you dare not Be Yourself in the significant simplicity of solitude.

If you want to make something of your life—if you want to mean something to yourself—GET RID OF THE HUMAN KNICK-KNACKS. Drop the idlers — the chatter sisterhood of the telephone, the beauty parlor, hotel lounge, window-shopping expeditions. Eliminate the people who mean nothing to themselves or to anyone else. Keep the few—the very few—whom you really love; with whom you really share some living interest.

And presently you will find that you have a new, a fresh, a heartening life instead of the old cluttered program of aimless, drifting, meaningless merry-go-round.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Although thousands of dollars worth of trinkets and merchandise are thefted from department stores every week in New York, you seldom read of it in the newspapers. There is a reason for this, and it hinges on the psychological hunch fostered by the gambling casinos on the Continent. Merchants believe it is bad publicity for thefts in their stores to be reported, just as Monte Carlo believes it is bad publicity for one of its clients to commit suicide after losing his fortune at roulette.

For years it has been the custom at certain European spas, when a desperate loser takes his life, to convey the body some distance from the casino and stuff a few thousand franc notes into his pockets. This enables the management to deny that suicide took his life because of losing his fortune. It is a custom that fiction writers have made legendary and there is evidence, so they say, to prove that this has happened many times.

* * *

IN NEW YORK the stores employ their own detectives, most of whom are women, to keep on the lookout for thieves. They pose as shoppers and prowl through the store looking at merchandise and keeping a close eye on suspicious characters. It is said that dozens of arrests daily are made, but they are usually settled out of court. The stores, except in extreme cases, do not like to involve the police and thereby let themselves in for newspaper comment. Such publicity has been indisputably proved bad, as many people will avoid a store that figures sensationally in the news.

The gambling casino angle, incidentally, brings to mind one of Alexander Woollcott's classic stories. It is that of the tall, young man who lost heavily at the gaming boards and then wandered out into the night. Suddenly there came a revolver shot. The attendants rushed out to find the body in the moonlight, a red blur spreading over his shirtfront.

* * *

NATURALLY, they were annoyed. But they followed the routine set aside for such situations. They hurriedly thrust 10,000 francs into his pockets and telephoned the police. But when the police arrived there was no body. Half an hour later the "body" sauntered casually into the casino. He began to play with the ten thousand francs, which a benevolent providence had dropped into his pockets, and he recouped all his losses. The red blur on his shirtfront, it developed, was red ink.

Of course there wasn't a thing the management could do but give him a few icy stares. But to these the young man was oblivious. People remaked they had seldom seen a young man in such high good humor, despite his prodigious losses of the last few days.

As I recall the story, the last that Alexander Woollcott heard of him he was still winning . . . and still very much alive.

ALL of US

—By MARSHALL MASLIN

Better to Forget.

WHAT do you do when you make a mistake? Do you brood over it or do you forget it?

Do you check it over, examine it carefully, pick out the useful experience it has supplied, and then throw the rubbish away?

Or is it such a shock to you that you think only of your bruised vanity or reputation and concentrate only on bitterness and remorse and let the gold of experience slip away from you?

You know, of course, that everybody makes mistakes. You can't avoid making them any more than you can avoid a germ or a mosquito or breathing.

If you didn't make them you wouldn't be worth knowing. You wouldn't have any friends. Your acquaintances would avoid you because you would be a continuous reproach to their own fallible natures.

You make mistakes in action and in thought. In judgments, in decisions. Since the future is dark to us, we err in the present. Since we can never know other individuals as well as we know ourselves, we make mistakes about other persons. . . . We do not even know ourselves completely, so we make mistakes even about ourselves and what we think and feel and what we are likely to do.

So my idea is that the wisest thing to do with a mistake is FORGET it. . . . Not to deny it immediately or refuse to allow it to influence us, but surely to push it as far as possible into the back of your mind.

If you walk the earth, remembering every mistake you ever made, thinking more often of your failures than your successes, you kill the best part of your life. You become a walking memory of failure.

At every instant of decision you will be reminded of some ridiculous, pathetic, humiliating or tragic error. And that reminder will paralyze your power of fruitful action. You will falter, hesitate, become a limited human being. Thinking too much of what you have NOT done, you will be unable to do what you MUST do. And all those little mistakes will be compounded into one enormous tragic failure.

It is far better to forget.

Modernistic Home To Be Opened Tomorrow For Public Inspection

East Townview Residence, Built of White Cement, Has Many 'Last Word' Features; Open Deck On Second Floor Typical of California; Glass Bricks Used.

A new step in home building in Mansfield will be displayed when the M. Don White home on East Townview circle is shown to the public Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

White, manager of the decorating department of the Charles Schroer company, designed and built the house with Marvin Grabler as contractor. The Schroer company furnished it. White came to Mansfield five years ago from Bullocks in Los Angeles.

The house, which is located at the north end of East Townview, is of modern California architecture and is constructed of pure white California cement. It is strictly modernistic in line and incorporates many features that are the "last word" in home construction.

The interior decorating, like the outside lines, is modernistic with unusual color combinations.

It will be completed to the last detail before it is opened to the public tomorrow. Admittance will be limited to persons obtaining admission slips from the Schroer company.

Living, Dining Room Combined.

One of the most unusual features is that two bedrooms are so designed that all four walls will accommodate twin beds. A feature that is coming into vogue rapidly in new homes because of its economy is the combination living room-dining room. The White home has an L shaped living room, with the main part running north and south, and the lower part of the L running east and west, the east end serving as dining space.

Typical of California homes is the open deck on the second floor which runs across the south and west side of the house. Part of it is covered with bright blue—coronation blue (used extensively throughout the house) awnings which make an attractive contrast with the white background, while a part of the deck is uncovered. The deck is furnished with chaise lounges, gliders and chairs in chromium and blue weather-proof leather.

An advantage that will appeal particularly to men is that the entire lawn surrounding the house can be sprinkled from the second story deck chairs, as the garden hose and water faucet are a part of the equipment on the deck.

Clear glass bricks have been used effectively in the construction of the house. The wall of the small entry hall is made of glass bricks, and they are used again in the kitchen. Most effective, however, is the adaptation of the clear glass bricks to the outer east wall of the house which also forms one side of the stair casing. In daytime the light shines through the bricks and lights the stairs, and at night, an outside electric light shines through the glass wall and gives a soft, dim light to the entire living room.

Each Room Different.

Particularly noteworthy is the treatment of walls throughout the house, each room being distinctly different. The kitchen walls are in leather, the bathroom walls in marbleized pastel linoleum, the bedroom walls are papered and the living rooms walls are painted

Linoleum has been used in an interesting and practical manner throughout the house, except the living room. The recessed window sills are all made of linoleum to match the color scheme, and banded with chromium. This treatment will eliminate discoloration and cracking wood.

While there are actually only five rooms in the house, exclusive of the deck, the house has an air of spaciousness. This is enhanced with many closets and two baths.

The garage is under the kitchen and is reached from the rear of the house. The house is heated with a Schill gas furnace equipped with a janitrol, and is air conditioned throughout.

A number of pieces of furniture in the house were designed by White and made at the Schroer furniture shop, and all of it is modernistic in line and finish.

Mansfield Contractors Equip Home

Contributing in no small measure to the beauty and durability of the M. Don White model home on East Townview circle, is the work of several Mansfield subcontractors. The new home will be opened tomorrow and for the succeeding two days for public inspection.

Admission to the house may be gained however, only on passes issued by the Charles M. Schroer company. These may be had by interested persons by calling at the store for them.

One of the most distinctive features of the house is the plumbing in bathrooms and kitchen. Wade Stanfield, 199 Coul street, was the plumbing contractor and incorporated permanence as well as beauty in the fixtures. The double kitchen sink represents the ultimate in convenience, while the Persian brown equipment in the main bathroom provides one of the most attractive modern bathrooms imaginable.

Perfectly adapted to the ultra modern note of the house are the distinctive Russwin locks, door handles and other hardware that was furnished by the Martin Hardware company, 11 North Main street.

A new note is found in the door knobs which are in colors to match the room, thus making the knobs different colors on the two sides of the doors. The Russwin line includes a complete selection of residental hardware, in colors to meet the individual need.

All lighting fixtures and wiring were installed by the Raby Electrical company, electrical engineers. The fixtures are modern in lines and each room has fixtures that are different and distinctly fitting to that particular room.

The Mansfield Plate Glass company contributed to the model home by installing the plate glass windows and the huge mirror which takes up one end of the living room. The mirror is unframed and seems to be a part of the wall.

An important feature in the house, which serves to make it more livable and comfortable is the insulation against outside weather conditions. The entire house is insulated with fireproof Red Top wool, which is handled by the United States Gypsum company. Layers of the wool covers the walls and ceilings, shutting out both heat and cold, so that the house's atmosphere is controlled by the air conditioning within. More and more men who build homes for their own use are insisting upon this feature of modern construction.

Exterior, Interior Views of New Home

Modern California in style and built of white California concrete, the new M. Don White house, 485 East Townview circle, strikes a new note in Mansfield homebuilding. It is typical of the modern homes of Southern California, stressing comfort and well lighted rooms. The home is fitted throughout with Venetian blinds, modernistic furniture and makes new uses of inlay linoleum in wall treatment and in window sills. Clear glass bricks have been used to advantage, both for trim and for light purposes. The house will be opened for inspection Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, to persons securing free tickets from the Charles Schroer company, which furnished the new home.

Length and spaciousness is added to the living room in the M. Don White model house by a huge mirror panel at one end of the room. It reflects the entire room and gives the impression of its being twice as long as it really is. The mirror is shown in the picture, with the two beige love seats against it. There is only one vase of flowers in the room, the other being reflected, and the two wall pictures are at the opposite end of the room. The love seats, the cocktail table on the white fur rug mark one end of the room, while the fireplace marks the other end. The two chairs and lamp are also reflected.

RESIDENTS SEEK SANITARY SEWER

Propose Construction On Cleveland Avenue; 6 Sign Petition.

City council had before it today a request for the construction of a sanitary sewer on Cleveland avenue from Arch street to Mason street.

A petition on file with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., asking council to pass necessary legislation, was signed by six property owners. It proposed that the work be done either with or without federal aid and the signers agreed to waive all rights to damages to their property which might be caused by the improvement.

FENCE TOWN TO KEEP OUT COWS

Georgia Officials Solve Their Livestock Problems.

HOMERVILLE, Ga.— (INS) — In effect, this town of 1,500 will soon be known as the walled city of Homerville.

They're not going to build a wall, but they are going to build a fence to encircle the entire city.

It started this way: Homerville had a cow problem, that is, the cows wouldn't stay out of the flowerbeds. So, after due deliberation, Mayor G. C. Hughes announced:

"We're going to build a fence around the whole town—as a beautification move."

Bedrooms And Baths Described

There are two bedrooms in the new M. Don White house on East Townview circle, which is being opened for public inspection this week, with additional sleeping space by a studio couch in the book room.

The master's bedroom is on the first floor, with windows to the front of the house (west) and the north, and the guest room is on the second floor in the northeast corner of the house. Both rooms have the unusual features of providing space for twin beds along any of the four walls, thus making it possible to change the position of the furniture frequently.

The master's room is gay and modernistic in furnishings and decorations. The floor is covered with a one-tone cherry red linoleum, while the walls are papered with a pale grey paper which is figured with groups of cherry, black and white quills. The Venetian blinds are grey and cherry, while the recessed windows sills are of cherry linoleum and chromium.

The furniture, made of English mahogany and beach, was all designed by White and made at the Schroer furniture building department. The twin beds are fully unholstered, with fluted, fan shaped heads. The dresser and chest of drawers are modernistic in design.

The guest bedroom presents an interesting color scheme of yellow and greens. The floor is covered with a jade green linoleum, while the wallpaper is a background of sea-foam green with stripes of beige and yellow.

The draperies at the windows are a basket weave in sunlight yellow, the same color being used in the bedspread.

The book room, also on the second floor, to the front, and which will serve as an auxiliary sleeping room when it is needed, is interesting for its color combination. It has been finished in chocolate brown and a new warm, Persian brown. The floor covering is the darker brown and the walls in the pale, pinkish Persian. The draperies are the same color as the floor. A striking feature is provided in the floor decoration. A flock of wild geese, in flying formation and in Persian brown, have been set into the chocolate brown covering.

There are two bathrooms, one on the first floor and the other, a smaller one on the second floor. Both of them have an unusual wall treatment of marbleized linoleum.

The walls of the main bath have been done in the popular Persian brown, which is a pastel blending of pink, rose and brown. The floor is covered with black linoleum with a feature stripe of coronation blue.

The upstairs bath is small and compact, with a shower recess instead of a tub. The walls are coral and the floor covering green.

A Kitchen Housewives Will Exclaim Over

The kitchen in the M. Don White home, which will be open for inspection for three days, starting tomorrow, will give housewives something to exclaim over It is long and narrow for compactness and convenience. Every bit of space is utilized and the color scheme is leather covered walls in chartreuse, royal blue floor covering with feature stripes of coronation blue. From the circular window to the north, there is a distinct view of the Reformatory, Lumbermen's Hill, and on clear days, of automobiles on the North Main street road.

NEW RESIDENCE HAS KITCHEN OF BEAUTY AND CONVENIENCE

The most interesting room in the M. Don White home, 485 East Townview circle, from the standpoint of the housewife, will be the kitchen. The home just completed and furnished by Schroer's, will be open for inspection for three days, starting Wednesday.

The kitchen was designed by White, who is head of the drapery and interior decorating department of the Charles Schroer company, to combine the last words in decorating and convenience.

The room is long and narrow, providing for a minimum of steps between the two work sides of the kitchen To the east is the double sink below a wide window, and around it are cupboard cabinets and an ample work bench. The refrigerator is also on the east wall.

On the opposite side is the range and more cupboards. The color scheme is chartruese and blue, the walls being covered with a chartruese washable leather and the floor covering a marbleized royal blue linoleum with features stripes down through the center of coronation blue.

At the north end of the kitchen there is space for a breakfast table and chairs. The table is placed against a semi-circular window facing the north The view adds charm to the room, for it provides a long, sweeping range that takes in the Reformatory, Lumbermen's Hill and the North Main street road beyond the Reformatory farms.

Wide, curved plate glass window is flanked on either side with sections of clear glass bricks, which add to lighting up the room with daylight. The curtains are hand painted oil silk, coronation blue on white.

The sill of the wide, semi-circular window is of royal blue linoleum, with chromimum feature strips.

The double sink is equipped with a movable hose and nossle with which to spray the dishes with hot water, and the tubs are unusually deep for the kitchen.

Mirrors Do 'Tricks' In New Home

The first thing that strikes the visitor who sets foot in the living room of the new Modern California home of M. Don White on East Townview circle and which is being opened for inspection tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, is the unusual length of the room.

The flipantry "it's all done with mirrors" is actually the explanation of the long room, for the actual measurement is about 23 feet long and 13 and a half feet wide at the end of the L shaped room.

However, a mirror that practically covers the south wall of the room, reflects the length of the room and makes it seem twice as long as it is. The mirror is set between two corner windows, and extends from near the floor to within about a foot of the ceiling. Thus you apparently face the fireplace—which is on the north wall—regardless of where you sit in the room.

The room is L shaped, the long bar of the L serving as living room and the short bar of the letter as the dining room.

The walls are in pale Wedgewood gray with white trim, the woodwork is a very pale gray. The windows are all steel frames which swing outward by operating a small lever. The screens are inside the glass.

The color scheme is soft and restful and provides a background of charm for the modernistic furniture. The floor is covered with a brocaded carpet in soft, French blue and white fur rugs.

The windows have been shaded with pale grey Venetian blinds and dark coral draperies of silk damask. There are only two pictures in the room, both of which reflect all of the colors that have been combined in the room. One over the fireplace is made of copper, with the figures laquered on in colors. Because of the mirror the picture seems to decorate both ends of the room.

The north wall is given over to a small trim fireplace faced with black Italian marble, and unbroken cabinets of pale gray. Those on the side nearest the dining room alcove are used for cupboard space. On the other end one of the cabinets holds a radio, with concealed loud speaker and with sound shafts carrying the music to the upper rooms.

The living room is reached through a small alcove that leads to the front entrance, and the door of the guest closet in the alcove is covered with a blue leather which complements to carpet.

Furniture in the room is modernistic although the severe lines have been softened to give a more restful atmosphere. Twin love seats upholstered in beige are at the south end of the room. There is a lounging chair in coral and there are other pieces in harmonizing colors. Tables and stands are modernistic, as are the lamps.

The dining room furniture consists of a table which is placed against the wall under the stairway, and chairs of mahogany upholstered in striped silk damask.

Glass Brick Lights Stairway

This picture gives an idea of how clear glass bricks have been used for the outer wall of the stairway in the model California home just completed by M. Don White and furnished by the Charles Schroer company. The walls are a pale, Wedgewood gray, and the wrought iron railing is in coral, as are the draperies for this end of the L shaped living room-dining room. A corner of the dining table, just below the stairs, is visible.

GETS NEW POST

Raymond Hayes Named City Electrical Inspector.

The creation of a new city post was revealed yesterday when Mayor Claude M. Hunter announced the employment of Raymond Hayes, 11 Sheridan avenue, to serve as city electrical inspector.

Hayes, a former employe of the Ohio Brass company and for the past five years an employe of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company took over his duties yesterday as an assistant to City Electrician Ernest Adams.

Hunter explains that the post was created in order to relieve Adams of the task of making electrical inspections because of the tremendous amount of work in that department. Adams installs, constructs and maintains the police and fire signal system, besides handling all the other municipal electrical work, Hunter explained.

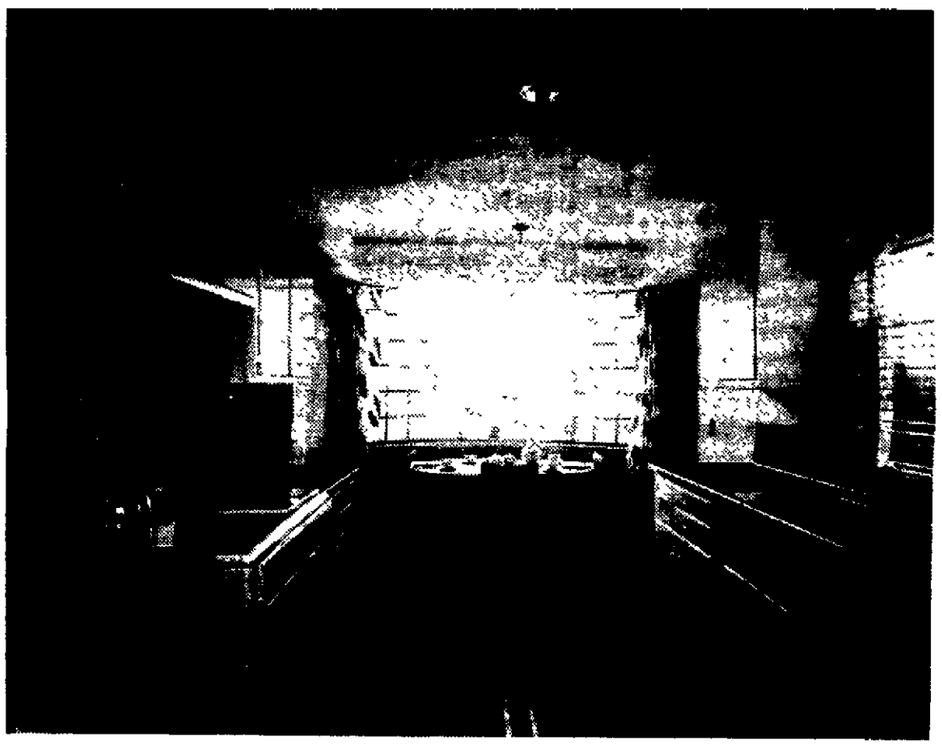
The living and dining rooms, which are really a continuous "L" shaped room, are treated as a unit. The floor is covered with an Ostend Blue carpet of special weave which acts as an excellent foil for the coral colored drapes and the upholstered pieces. The upholstered pieces, having been custom built in Schroer's own shop are distinctive. In one grouping a two section davenport is used upholstered in a neutral Beige French Tuft fabric, these being placed on either side of a mirror covering the entire end of the room. A pair of lounge chairs in combination blue and gray form the second ensemble which along with a ladies' lounge chair in coral complete the larger units in seating. A focal point of the room is the mantel which is directly opposite the mirrored wall. This is strictly modern and has a concealed lighting arrangement for effective lighting of any over mantel treatment.

In the dining room are typical modern pieces—a light Grey Walnut table with side chairs and two host chairs upholstered in striped damask, the host chairs serving as pull-up chairs in the living room. All tables both dining room and living room are Gilbert Rohde original designs. As a separation, when desired, of the living room from the dining room, is a built in traverse track from which is hung a draped voile and glass fabric.



FIRST FLOOR BEDROOM

The first floor bedroom is strikingly different in its furnishings. The floor is covered with a plain cherry red linoleum. Walls are papered, three sides in a modern figured and the fourth wall being perfectly plain. Window curtains are in white celophane net with black tie backs, picking up the colors in the wallpaper and other furnishings. The modern bedroom suit in Honduras mahogany and English Beech are of Gilbert Rohde design. The twin beds and night table were designed by Mr. White and custom built in the Schroer Shop. These are quite unusual in that they have a half fan-shape headboard, upholstered in Beige and Black leather, making them usable as twin beds or together as one unit.

BATH ROOM

Here is truly a linoleum room. The walls and ceiling are entirely covered with Sealex marbelized wall linoleum and the floor in plain linoleum.
The walls of Azure blue give an excellent background for the Persian brown colored fixtures. A custom built personalized floor in plain black linoleum with plain blue feature strips has a definite tie-up with the balance of the room. The walls, ceiling and floor all being of linoleum, the housewife not only has beauty but the most easily cleaned of all treatments for these areas.

KITCHEN

A well planned kitchen is the pride of every housewife—and here again new ideas were carried through to completion. The walls as an illustration are covered in a lemon yellow leather—used because of its washability and permanence of color. The floor is custom built in marbelized night blue linoleum with plain blue and yellow insets— the blue linoleum also being used on the counter tops. The new 1938 Modern Magic Chef Gas Range along with the custom built kitchen units as arranged give convenience with a minimum of steps. A point of unusual interest is the circular bay breakfast alcove, with its chrome furniture, amply lighted by using a combination of Glass brick and plate glass.

SECOND FLOOR BEDROOM

A cool and restful room with its dark green jaspe linoleum floor and solid cherry bedroom suit. The wallpaper is in a stripe sea-foam green, yellow and grey. Draperies are in plain yellow with bedspread to match. A recessed panel wall and all woodwork is in sea-foam green.

CONVERTIBLE, BEDROOM—BOOK ROOM

This second floor room might be called the Man's Room, as it is a combination Bedroom-Book Room. The floor is in plain brown mahogany linoleum with insets in pigskin. The drapery of flat mohair with pigskin background has a mahogany triumph modern figure. A studio couch in chrome with brown plaid cover along with the "Meri Stick" tables and chairs upholstered in Moorish Tile leather introduces a new idea in furniture designing, offering built-in comfort and appealing style.

DECK

You will immediately be inpressed with the many practical features of a second floor deck. Here is really a restful place to spend the hot summer days. With a white background, the plain blue awnings with white trim and glider and chairs in white, blue and dubonnet are indicative of the season's most popular color for outdoor furnishings.

SMALLER HOMES GAIN IN FAVOR, SURVEY SHOWS

Analysis of Federal Housing Homes Discloses Average Cost of $5,467.

Growing demand for small homes is seen in the analysis made by the Federal Housing Administration of the value of new homes financed under the Insured Mortgage System during 1937. Of the entire number of mortgages on single-family houses that were accepted for insurance, nearly 60 per cent were valued at less than $6,000, and of these 40 per cent were valued at less than $5,000.

The average appraised value of new single-family houses covered by mortgage insurance last year was $5,467, which was a decrease of $158 from the average shown in 1936. Inasmuch as building costs increased in 1937 over the previous year, it would appear that this drop in average value was due to the trend toward the construction of smaller homes.

A study of property values in 1937 according to the number of rooms per house shows that 54.4 per cent of all single-family houses insured contained five rooms or less, as compared with 43.9 per cent in 1936.

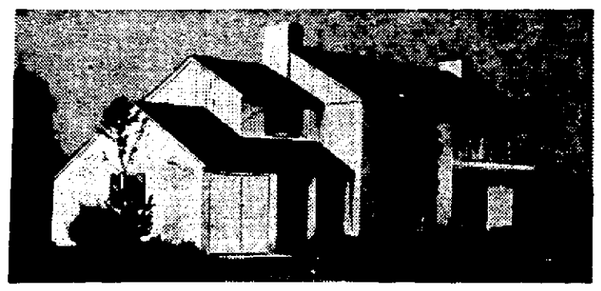
Higher priced homes accounted for only 8 per cent of the mortgages insured by the FHA in 1937. These homes ranged in value from $10,000 upward.

NEED SOLID FOUNDATION

When steps of masonry or concrete are installed be sure that the ground on which they rest is solid and not newly filled.

If the ground has been filled only a little while, it will settle and cause the steps to settle with it.

Home With Balcony, Porches



This picturesque example of the Monterey-type house, with second-story balcony, is built of brick and wood siding painted white, with a brown cedar shingled roof.

The well related living and dining quarters have attractive exposures, and the garage sensibly connects with the house by a service porch. The rear porch has a second floor level.

Though the house was built on Long Island, it has no basement, substituting a first-floor heater room. Insulation of lath, and mineral wool was provided and the heating and conditioning is by gas.

Architect Randolph Evans designed this home, and it was selected by The American Home, 444 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y., as an outstanding example of modern shelter.

Building Permits

Building permits issued at city hall since Monday, May 16, include:

O. C. Wittmer, rear 394 South Main street, residence addition $500; Mrs. Edna Fisher, 179 Western avenue, residence addition $200; Mrs. Myrtle Hoffa, 26 St. Clair street, residence addition $50; G. A. Laser, 21 Clairmont avenue, garage addition $50; S. B. White, 187 Gerke street, garage $100; H. L. Farber, 583 Scholl road, remodel residence $200; O. G. Spurgeon, Wood street, residence $5,800; Philip Baer, 66 Bartley avenue, garage $50; J. C. Bauman, 179 Chilton avenue, residence and garage $3,000.

WINDOWS CAN BE ENLARGED

Lack of sunlight due to the small square windows that most basements in old houses have, tends to give the basement room a drab atmosphere.

Basement windows, and especially those lighting and ventilating a basement game room should be enlarged and areaways developed, if necessary, for this purpose.

Blasts CIO 'Influence' In Relief Crisis at Toledo

MAYOR CLAIMS UNION HELPED DRAIN FUNDS

Relief Administrator Says Demonstrators Directed by Labor Organization.

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO—The legislature's relief investigating committee pursued its Toledo survey today after Mayor Roy Start asserted the CIO "has brought undue influence on the relief situation."

Rep. Kenneth M. Petri of Galion asked the mayor at a hearing yesterday if "CIO activities here depleted relief funds more rapidly than they would have otherwise been depleted."

"No doubt they have," Start answered. "The CIO had large numbers before council and, I believe, has brought undue influence on the relief situation."

30-Day Set-Back.

Petri asked if, without "this influence," the city's relief funds would have lasted until July 1.

"They never would have lasted to July 1," Start replied. "They might have lasted 30 days longer."

Nearly 200 indigent persons and sympathizers ended a day-long sit-down in relief headquarters late yesterday after City Relief Administrator Clarence Bendict said he would confer with their representatives concerning a list of demands. The demonstration was directed, Benedict said, by the Toledo CIO council's welfare committee.

At Cleveland, the city council transferred $120,000 from the municipal street lighting fund as a third weekly relief stop-gap appropriation. More than 1,000 demonstrators filled the council chamber, where relief clients staged a sit-down last week.

HOUSE GETS BILL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—First major bill to receive committee approval in the legislature's special session, a measure giving the state government broad powers over local administration of poor relief, went to the house floor today.

The administrative-relief bill, similar in many respects to one vetoed by Gov. Martin L. Davey earlier in the year as too drastic, would give a state relief director wide authority to regulate local use of state money and to withhold funds from municipalities or townships which disobeyed his rulings.

The house welfare committee approved the measure last night after voting down a controversial amendment barring from relief all aliens who fail to declare intention of seeking citizenship.

U. S. Agents Hunt Burglar At Work In White House

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Department of justice officials were investigating a series of thefts at the White House today. Arrest of a suspect who has been under surveillance for some time is expected shortly.

The thefts have been carried on for about a year. Almost $1,200 has disappeared in that time according to White House officials.

Boldness of the thief, who has been apparently carrying on his depredations right under the noses of the president, Mrs. Roosevelt and the White House family have the president's aids frankly worried.

Money has been taken from upper rooms in the White House. Several persons, including the president's personal secretary, Miss Margaret Lehand, have found their purses rifled.

"It costs a lot of money to keep this place fit to stay in," is a common remark at house-cleaning time, but when Sheriff E. P. Long repeated it today he was referring to a bill for more than $100 for insect eradicator for the county jail. Nearly two barrels of eradicator is used at the county prison in a year, most of it to keep down the bed bug population, the sheriff said. "We try to keep out all of the pests, but it's a tough job when prisoners cut holes in the mattresses to let the bugs inside," the sheriff added.

$37,000 Improvement Project Goes to Council Tonight.

The property owners' share on the improvement is figured at $30,000 and the city's share at $7,000. It will be paid from auto registration fee funds.

If council approves the measures work is expected to start within 30 days.

WAGE BILL FOES MAP LAST FIGHT

Opponents, Conceding New Deal Victory, Launch Drive for New Amendments.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—House foes of the revised wage-hour bill, conceding they had little chance of victory, united today in an attempt to make it more flexible by modifying the minimum wage provisions.

Many southern Democrats and some Republicans supported a substitute bill by Representative Ramspeck (D., Ga.) which would allow variations in wage rates between industries or geographical areas if conditions warranted them.

The house measure would permit no such variations. It would establish a graduated minimum wage starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing to 40 cents after three years.

Most of the opposition centered on this rigidity rather than on the 44-hour maximum week, which would be reduced to 40 hours in two years.

Leaders brought the bill up to the amendment stage late yesterday by a substantial margin before adjournment tonight.

They based their optimistic forecast partially on the overwhelming vote of 322 to 73 by which the membership forced the bill to the floor. Only 53 Democrats and 20 Republicans opposed its consideration.

Even the proponents said, however, they could not hope for such a majority on the final vote.

DAVEY DEFENDS 'HOT MIX' AS STATE'S BEST 'MONEY SAVER'

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Hot mix, a much-maligned bituminous road material used in the revamping and maintenance of state highways had the official approval today of Governor Davey while its foes fought in common pleas court to recover $3,000,000 from the hot mix industry for alleged overcharges to the state.

Instead of being a drain on public funds, as charged by the senate investigating committee, hot mix is the "greatest money-saver in the history of this state," Davey said last night in his weekly radio address.

"It is the method used," he continued, "to save hundreds of millions of dollars invested in old pavement to widen and put on a new surface. This program is being held up by Mr. Bricker's (John Bricker, Republican candidate for governor) political lawsuit, with the hope that he can gain some political advantage out of it."

The governor explained the various programs of the state highway department and pointed out the heavy burdens placed upon it by floods, worn out equipment and unusually heavy snow storms.

Meanwhile, Harry A. Sparks, deposed highway engineer, went on the witness stand to testify in Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson's suit to stop payment of money to members of the Hot-Mix association until her suit has been settled. The present action was to enjoin Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson from making any further payments on contracts.

In his testimony, Sparks said the highway department used to get a lot of bids on hot-mix paving up to the legal limts "before this administration came in."

"Now," he said, "all limitations have been wiped out."

DIES ON VISIT

Mrs. Custer, Ex-Mansfielder, Stricken in Denver.

Mrs. Mary McCoy Custer, of Taos, N. M., a native of Mansfield, died Sunday in Denver, Col., where she was visiting friends, after a brief illness. Mrs. Custer left Mansfield three years ago to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Paul Albright, in Taos.

She was employed as money order and register clerk at the Mansfield postoffice for a number of years prior to the time she went to New Mexico. Mrs. Custer was a member of the First Methodist church of Mansfield.

Surviving beside her daughter are a son, Dr. Nathan Custer of Springfield, O., a sister, Mrs. Maude Emery of Monnett, Mo., a nephew, J. Clarke Custer of Mansfield and two nieces, Mrs. William Brennen of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Pauline Hull of Akron.

The body will be brought to Mansfield and placed in a vault at Mansfield cemetery. Burial services will be held later.

DECISION BOON TO ROOSEVELT'S TAXATION PLAN

Capital Sees High Court's Opinion Opening Path to Levy on State Payrolls.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The supreme court was believed today to have cleared the way for a broad extension of both federal and state taxing powers.

Its decision approving imposition of federal income taxes on port of New York authority employes was expected to give new impetus to the campaign inaugurated by President Roosevelt to eliminate the exemption from federal taxes now enjoyed by state employes.

Possibility of legislation during the current session of congres to carry out this aim, however, was believed remote. Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., said that there was "not much chance" for such action this year.

'Strongest Support.'

The port authority decision was haled by Undersecretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill as "the strongest kind of support" for Mr. Roosevelt's campaign, and that it was one of the "great" decisions of the past decade.

The decision, delivered yesterday by Justice Harlan F. Stone, was the court's most recent of a group spread through the current term, all of which have affected the extension of taxing powers of both federal and state governments.

Treasury officials said that the amount of money which the federal government would raise by imposition of income taxes on all state employes actually was comparatively small — approximately $15,000,000.

But approval of imposition of such taxes, it was felt, might be a long step toward a new interpretation of the 16th amendment under which the phrase, "from whatever source," would be taken to mean just that.

Law In a Bad Way When U. S. Government Has To Cheat to Enforce It.

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—For the benefit of the New York World-Telegram, I would like to read a little lesson on sincerity and straight-shooting as opposed to government shystering in the application of the law.

Commenting on the federal investigation of the Hague dictatorship in Jersey City, the World-Telegram says:—"It was essential and inevitable that the federal government should restrain Hague's high-handed regime, just as federal income tax prosecutions have handled other big shots who were too tough to be dealt with by ordinary means."

I concede that the conspiracy law may apply to the Hague thing, but I claim that Al Capone, a big shot too tough to be dealt with "by ordinary means," is the victim of a shyster trick on the part of the government.

The government couldn't prove against Capone any of the hundreds of sins, from loitering to murder, which were popularly attributed to him, so he was given eleven years for income tax fraud.

Then, by way of revenge, not mere punishment, he was sent to Alcatraz to do it the hard way.

* * *

It is recognized that Capone is serving this term this way for various crimes which were not proved nor even formally charged. A precedent is thus established by which anyone who irritates the federal government, and more particularly the department of justice, may be put away and silenced and possibly shot dead with a rifle. Why not?

How do we know what happens in Alcatraz under the secrecy imposed by the prison commissioner? What is the reason for this secrecy in a federal bureau not concerned with delicate foreign relations or national defense? Suppose a man is sent to Alcatraz for a technical tax violation and then one day is shot while trying to swim for it.

Who says he tried to swim for it? The guard says so. But how do we know he wasn't pushed into the water and shot for riddance?

"I don't say he was pushed. But I do say the department of justice has had its share of crooks and political persecutors, and I suspect any department which stretches one law to punish a man for unprovable violations of other laws.

* * *

The department of justice was hot after Huey Long's gang for tax violations until Huey's death. Huey's boys might have been sent to Alcatraz for political obstreperousness under the tax law if Huey hadn't been killed and the cases, happily, solved by political compromise.

Nobody on earth can make out an honest income tax return, taking full advantage of his rights under the law, and not lay himself open to malicious political charges of fraud. The experts of the internal revenue bureau admit this, off the record. The law and the rulings are full of dishonest tricks and traps, and the bureau itself can and does employ trick constructions and blackjack rulings to extort money which isn't due. A citizen construes the law by a certain way one year and is tripped and penalized by a bureau ruling. Next year he takes advantage of that ruling in a case which benefits him and is told that the ruling has been reversed.

* * *

Composed, as it is, of lawyer-politicians and cops, the department of justice never can be fully trusted to apply any law evenly and without personal or political animus. It is always open to suspicion, for the day of Harry Daugherty and Gaston Means isn't far gone, and the present conduct of the department cannot be judged until it has been exposed to the same kind of inspection.

* * *

The World-Telegram further comments on the application of the Lindbergh law to the case of Norman Thomas, who was run out of Jersey City for trying to make a speech.

"The government now recognizes that a forcible physical ejection may be kidnaping under the definition," the editorial says.

The Lindbergh law was intended to deter and punish actual kidnapers operating across state lines. There was no intention that it should apply to a simple case of bum's rush.

The law is in a hell of a way when it has to cheat to gain its ends.

Indirection, Not War, to Be Hitler's Weapon as He Seeks to Swallow Czechs

—By DeWITT MacKENZIE

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Expert)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Europe's week-end war-scare and its very decided hang-over presupposed that Nazi Chieftain Hitler was about to invade Czechoslovakia with military forces.

That is a supposition which might have materialized and still may do so, but actually found little support in such concrete facts as were made available to the watching world.

Fear was the chief impulse back of the speculation. When troops are moved in Europe, the war-ghost starts to rattle his chains and chancelleries begin glancing over their shoulders uneasily.

* * *

This is not to say that Fuehrer Hitler hasn't designs affecting Czechoslovakia. He has made it quite clear that he has. Up to this point, however, he has given many indications that he intends to achieve his absorption of the Czechoslovakian Nazis by indirection.

That is to say, he apparently planned to take the course of least resistance, and least danger, by letting his big following in that country do the job for him, rather than by making a direct military assault from without. Germany meantime could exercise tremendous pressure on the small republic.

Hitler has fair promise that if he attacks Czechoslovakia he will force a European war.

He has equally fair promise that if he is able to carry out his program indirectly, he will be allowed by France, Britain, et al., to get away with it.

* * *

Hitler doesn't want war, if all the signs read true—that is, he doesn't want any general war. The German military machine is keyed up to high-pitch according to all accounts, but Germany is in a bad way economically and not set for a big conflict.

Actually, while the situation has eased off a bit, there is perhaps more danger of a clash between the two than there was four days ago. Now we have troops glaring at each other across the border, and that's always bad for peace.

Traditional For June Brides

For the formal wedding the gown pictured is exquisite. This bridal gown is cream colored, and made of yarn dyed, duchess weighted silk satin with moyen age waistline. That is, the bodice is brought down over the hips, leaving the waist molded, with the very full skirt gathered on this low waistline. The skirt has a train and the bodice is buttoned closely up to the high V-shaped neckline, and has short puffed sleeves. The dress is worn with a hip-length veil edged with satin, and caught to the head with orange blossoms. There also is a face veil attached to the headdress. This dress would be lovely, later on for a dance dress, with the train removed.
